APOLOGY

For the USE of the

ENGLISH LITURGY

WORSHIP;

Against the

CAVILS and EXCEPTIONS

Of the Presbyterians in North - Britain :

INA

LETTER

Mr. FRANCIS MELVIL,

One of the PRESBYTERTAN Teachers in Aberdeen.

To which are added,

Some Considerations concerning Set Forms of Prayer, Episcopacy, Schism, and other Matters relating to Church-Communion.

By a Citizen of Aberdeen.

Jer. vi. 16. Thus faith the Lord, Stand ye in the Ways and fee, and ask for the old Paths, where is the good Way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your Souls.

Tit. i. 10, 11. For there are many unruly and watn Walkers and Deceivers—whose Mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole Houses, teaching Things which they ought not for filthy Lucres sake.

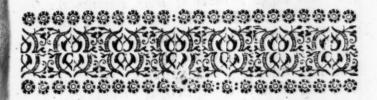

LONDON: Printed by H. P. for J. BETTENHAM, at the Crown in Pater-Noster-Row. 1718.

Price One Shilling and Six-pence.

for the state of the state of the state of The series of th The second of the second secon

はなるので an of Time being Charles the application and by lo P

THE

PREFACE

HE following little Treatise is written by a Lay-Man who lives in that Northern Part of this Island, where Presbytery received an Establishment at the REVOLUTION, and was founded upon the INCLINATIONS of the People, which yet were at least, even at that Time, Two to One against it; nor is there the least mention made in the AEt which introduced it, of its being Jure Divino, of Divine Right, and yet all the Teachers of that Sect do affert it to be the Original and only Government of the Christian Church which is acceptable to GOD, altho' they have been as often confuted in that, and all other their Novel Notions, as they have adventured to appear Advocates for them: And therefore they look upon all Christians, of whatever Denomination, who differ from them, as so many Hereticks and Schismaticks, as Enemies to GOD, and as unfit to live upon the Earth: And accordingly are. by Principle, PERSECUTORS of all who to differ from them. And whenever they have POWER, they shew, too demonstrably, that they

h

I

U

0 ti

i

6

2

H

1

(

1

1

r

7

0

are the genuine Product of their Parents the Old COVENANTERS: For I think I may fafely affert it as Fact, that fince their Establishment, they have not let any one Opportunity slip, of Disturbing, Insulting, Scandalizing, Robbing, and Ruining all those of Episcopal Principles, especially the Clergy, whom they could by any manner of way come at : Per Fas aut Nefas, by fair Means or foul. They pretend a great Aversion to Popery, and yet have incorporated into their Scheme of Politicks, the very worst Principles of the worst Papists, fuch as KING-KILLING, PERSE-CUTION, and if not Fire and Faggot, yet Halters and Gibbets, and have turned the Laws which were made in King Charles II's Reign to Suppress and prevent their frequent REBELLI-ONS, now against the peaceable People of the Episcopal Communion, who have ever declared their Abhorrence of all Rebellion.

SO soon as they were Established, they employ'd all their Invention to raise Scandals upon the Clergy, who were turned out, and harrassed them from Court to Court, imprison'd them, sin'd them, and banish'd them, after having sisse mobb'd many of them, wounding some, and beating others, even to Death; and turning their Wives and Children out of their Houses, stript of their Cloaths, without any regard to the Image of GOD, the Laws of Nature, or of CHRISTIANITY, even in Winter. Full Accounts of all which barbarous Usages were printed and published in London soon after.

AND altho' they pretend their Presbyterial Government is of Divine Right, yet when it was offered them to have it declared to be so by Parliament, they declined it, and seem'd then contented to have it stand as it was, only upon the Bottom of the Inclinations of the People; from which I think 'tis very evident, e Old

ment,

Di-

and peci-

ner of

Means

pery,

Po-

Pa-

SEt, yet

Laws

gn to

LLI-

f the clared

ploy'd

Cler-

from

, and

my of ven to

ithout

WS of

en in

Ufa-

foon

terial

t was arlia-

ted to have

Safe-

First, That if it be Fact, That the Inclinations of the Generality or Majority of the People were not then for Presbytery, 'tis founded in a Lie. And that the Majority of the People were then against it, is too apparent from the History of those Times, to be deny'd.

Secondly, That allowing, giving, and not granting, That the Majority of the People was then for Presbytery; if the People have now chang'd their Minds, and are inclin'd to Episcopacy, in this Case Presbytery ought to be discharg'd, and Episcopacy ought to be Re-establish'd: And that a Majority of the People are adverse to Presbytery now, and defirous of Episcopacy, is so certain, That if their Votes are either to be Number'd or Weigh'd throughout all Scotland, the Majority will be found against Presbytery: And if they deny or dispute this, let them put it to the Trial; I do adventure to say in the Name of the Episcopal Communion, That they will be contented to be banish'd their Country, if they have not a Majority for them.

Thirdly, This shews, that their Cry of Divine Right notwithstanding; their chief Concern is the Possession and Enjoyment of the LIVINGS, and of POWER: Why else did they resuse to have their Government declared by Parliament to be of Divine Right?

Fourthly, This shews the Cruelty of their Nature, since they are so Arbitrary, so Insolent, and of such a persecuting Spirit, when after all, they are Establish'd upon a Lie, and at best upon the precarious Bottom of the Inclinations of the People, which now are against them.

THEY

THEY shew greater Civility to, or at least are less outragious against the Quakers, Anabaptists, and Independents, than the People of the Episcopal Communion; nay, the Papists live more afely under their Government, than do the Asserters of Episcopal Principles; and they choose to have People turn Papists, as many have done in the North of Scotland, and particularly in the Highlands, rather than allow them to have an Episcopal Minister amongst them.

BUT of all things they have a terrible Aversion to all Liturgies; and the Reason is very plain, That the Beauty, Symmetry, and Harmony of Regular Worship, doth so outshine their Extemporary Rhapfodies, that they are not able to bear it; because they either do Assert, on at least by Innuendo's would have the People believe, that they are Inspired by the HOLY GHOST in all their Prayers; which yet are not Proof of being read without Horror, when catch'd by the Pen of a Short-Hand Writer.

I REMEMBER to have been told, That when King CHARLES I. of Bleffed Memory, was a Prisoner to his own Rebellious Subjects at Newcastle upon Tyne, the famous Mr. Henderson forced himself with great Rudeness to Pray before His Majesty, which the good King did all he was able to hinder: But the other would do it, and the King could not help it, being under Durance. And when he perceived how Irregular, Indigefted, Flat, and often Wicked, Mr. Henderson's Prayers were, he order'd two or three of his Servants who could write short Hand very well, to Catch Mr. Henderson's Prayer, but so secretly, that Henderson did not perceive it. When this was done, the King ordered them each of them apart, to write out at Length what they had thus Catch'd, and finding the Copies to agree exactly

C

are

co-

fely

sof

eo-

rth

ids,

ini-

n to

hat

ular

ap-

they

ould

y the hich

ror,

That

as a ew-

for-

His

le to

ing

vhen

and

vrite

lon's

not lered what

agree aEHy

he

r.

exactly, he told Mr. Henderson that he had a Prayer in Writing which he defired him to read, and to give him his Opinion of it. Henderson was about to read it then; no, Said the King, take it with you, read it carefully, and next time I see you, tell me how you like it. Accordingly, Henderson brought it with him next time he came, and told the King, It was one of the most Ridiculous, Impertinent, Nonfensical, Wicked, Blasphemous Prayers he had ever seen in all his Life; and that the Composer must have been an Illiterate, Pedantick Blockhead, unacquainted with Religion, and the Spirit of Prayer, and that he could scarce read it with Patience, nor without Horrour, and much more to this Purpose. Upon which the King modestly and meekly told him, Thou art the Man; and satisfied him that it was his own, and how he came by it. And to give Henderson his due, it mortified him so thoroughly, that he became much easier to the King after this, and conceived a better Opinion of him, than he had entertained before: and he continued to think well of him to his last Breath, and told his Brethren upon his Death-Bed, how wicked he and they had been in their undutiful Behaviour to their Natural Prince, and one of the best Men in the World. Thus he died a Penitent, but could not perswade his Brethren to be such.

THIS shews what strange things these People are capable of saying in their Prayers, when their Imaginations are heated; and when a Henderson, a leading Man amongst them, and a Man of good natural Parts, and of a Competency of acquired Learning, could pray in such a Manner, with such Fervency, such Blasphemous Nonsense, as himself did Condemn, and could not remember, for a few Days what he had said, what may not the Teachers amongst them not say, who are many of them Men of Low Understandings,

OF WHICH Number I take this Melvil of Aberdeen to be, to whom the following Letter is directed.

I HAVE not the Honour to be acquainted ' with the Ingenious Gentleman who is the Author of it; but by Character, he is a Man of a Regular Life, an Admirer of Primitive Doctrine, Discipline, Worship, and Government; a Diligent Enquirer after Truth, Orthodox in Principle, and one who spends his Time very much in Books, and to very good Purpole; one who has suffered much for his zealous Adherence to the Interest of the diftressed Church, and yet who laments her desolate Condition, more than his own particular Afflictions. The Obligation he conceived himself to be under of Undeceiving his poor, well-meaning Neighbours, as to that important Article of Worlhip, put him upon this Essay, which he has solidly and judiciously perform'd, and from which I shall no longer detain the Reader. And I wish that the blessed Time may soon come, when all who name the Name of Jesus may depart from Iniquity, may die unto Sin, and live unto Righteousness; and that the greatly distressed, and severely Persecuted Church of Scotland may become like Gold tried in the Fire seven Times, Pure and Undefiled; and may GOD forgive her Persecutors.

A LFT-

ETTER

TO

Mr. Francis Melvil, &c.

SIR,

ed and

Melvil tter is ainted ' thar of egular Disciiligent ciple, Books, much e dif-folate Hiaibe unleighrlhip, y and o lonblessed

ame of Sin, reatly ch of Fire

GOD

T-

Was not a little surprized to hear of a Sermon preach'd by, you in the Church of Aberdeen the 13th of March last, wherein after you had told an old Woman's Tale, of the Devil's having appeared in a Green Habit to a poor fick Woman, and a great deal more fuch ridiculous Stuff; you then observed to your Hearers, That before the Reformation, the Devils frequently appeared in human Shape, and were called 1510 mnies.

Hownites, [House Familiars] but that ever fince they have been chained up, till of late the English Service Book came to be used here, upon which they had again broke loose to play their Tricks amongst us, for useing such an Idolatrous Form of Worship. To make good this wise Observation, you afferted that you had read the English Liturgy and the Roman Missal, and having diligently compared them, you found them to agree in every thing, desiring they would take this on your Word, and believe it as a certain Truth.

As for the Devils frequent appearing before the Reformation, I know nothing about it, and I believe you know as little from any good Authority, either of his Range then, or how far he has been restrained since. We are assured from the divine Writings, that the SON of GOD was manifested to destroy the Works of the Devil, and that all Sin and Wickedness are the Devils Works; St. John said in his time that the whole World lay ev To movupo in Maligno, in the Evil one; as you may fee by comparing 1 Epist. v. ch. 19. with ch. iii. ver. 12. The time is not yet come of the old Serpent called the Devil and Satan his being bound for a thousand Years. Apocal, xx. 2. He still goeth about feeking whom he may devour; and we are not ignorant of his Devices. He that committeh Sin is of the Devil, therefore I pray you do him the Justice to let our own Pride and Ambition, our Malice and Self-love, our corrupt Lusts and Affections, come in for a Share of the Blame, and join with the Holy Church in praying that the Kingdom of Christ may come, that we may have Power and Strength, to have Victory and to triumph, against Sin, the World, and the Devil; that we may not be led into Temptation, but delivered from that Evilone; that it may please and fall, Will be ligit Spit thin

GC

Au con to rid G fend De

I

wa of or Pa

po

for ha for Ar

ve Fa

· L

GOD

fince

Ser-

da-

use-

nake

you

ffal,

hem

15 012

the

beori-

has

the

was evil,

vils

ole

ne;

19.

me

his

He

ur;

hat

ray

and

upt

the

ing

we

ory

on,

afe

D

GOD to strengthen such as do stand, to comfort and help the weak hearted, to raise up them that fall, and finally to beat down Satan under our Feet. Whatever you do, I shall ever pray that these may be the blessed Essects of the Resormation of Religion, that we may bring forth the Fruits of the Spirit, a national and personal Resormation of every thing that is amiss either in Dostrine or Practice.

But I could wish that all who believe they have Authority to be Instructors of the People would consider what mighty Obligation lies upon them, to affert nothing that is vain, impertinent, or ridiculous, much less to make the holy House of GOD, the Place of his more immediate Prefence, a Market of Scandal, Falshood, Obloquy, Detraction, Slander, Defamation, Error and Hypocrify. This is to abuse the Institution, to pervert the End of Church Assemblies, to delude the Auditory, to cheat the Simple, to feduce the Unwary, to mislead the Ignorant, and to turn the House of Prayer into a Synagogue of Satan. How far you or any of your Brethren may be guilty in this Particular, I leave to your felves to judge, and all others who have attended your Pulpit-Exercises for these - Years, that the Orthodox Clergy have been every where turned out to make way for the Soul converting and editying Ministry you pretend. I am forry that Aberdeen, the Northern Athens, once famous for Learning and learned Men, should now (instead of the solid and judicious Sermons of grave Divines, celebrated all over the Reformed World) have Froth and Fables, Falshood and Scandal, forcibly obtruded with the formal Preamble of Bear the Willow of the . Hold, D Believers! This is a melancholy Confideration, but such indeed is our present Condition; B 2 and. and we may take up the Lamentation of the Jews, Is. lix. 9. We waited for Light, but behold Ob-scurity; for Brightness, but we walk in Darkness. V. 12. For our own Transgressions are with ns, and as for our Iniquities, we know them. V. 13. In transgressing and lying against the Lord, in departing away from our God, speaking Oppression and Revolt, conceiving and uttering from the Heart Words of Falshood. V. 14. And Judgment is turned away backward, and Justice standeth afar off: for Truth is fallen in the Street, and Equity cannot enter. V. 15. Yea, Truth faileth, and be that departeth from Evil maketh himself a Prey.

It is the Duty in the mean time of every one who feeks for Salvation, in these lamentable Calamities of the Church, to put in Practice the ferious Council of the GOD of Truth, Jerem. vi. 16. Thus saith the Lord, stand ye in the Ways and see, and ask for the old Paths, where is the good Way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your Souls. Such a Way, fuch an OLD and confequently fafe Way, by the Testimony of the Catholick Church, every where and at all times, I believe our Reformed Episcopal Church to be, and your Presbyterian Constitution to be Modern, New, and Anti-Catholick, as I shall endeavour to prove in this Letter and the Treatife following, whereby will appear the manifest Falshood and Injustice of that Assertion you had the Confidence to utter in your Pulpit-harangue, viz. That the English Service Book and the Romish Missal were the same; of this you brought no Proof but your Say-fo, which was to require fuch an implicit Faith in your Hearers, in a matter of very great Importance, as favours too much of that Popery, against which you would feem fo zealous; whilst in the mean time. you do most effectual Service to that Interest, by lay-emi tion Eng fure tho \mathbf{K} ir of t fay cate effe wha bro of i Pap mad of t lers hea

layi

Lit

the

aio

turg ther for of o wit reig ny t Chu Wo Bra incu

he

16-

s.

as

ef-

om

ind

4-

nd

nd

ne

la-

riv

vi.

lee,

ind

1 2

by

ery

ed

an

a-

ter

-75

ul-

ok

ou rs,

ou

ne.

by y

laying in the Dust the Glory of the Reformation, a Liturgy sufficiently commended by the Pens of the Learned, and vindicated from all the Objeations of its Opposers. You give up at once those eminent Divines, to whom we owe our Reformation from Popery, (they being the Compilers of the English Liturgy) the whole Church of England, the furest Bulwark I know upon Earth against it; and those of her Communion who retain to it, the Kings and Parliaments, (the Authorifers of it) all of them to be Papilts, if it be Popery, as you fay it is. But I am pretty confident I shall vindicate all concerned in that Matter; and for that effect I shall consider the Service Book in it self, what Opinion our Reformers, both at home and abroad, had of it, the Compilers and Authorisers of it, if it was by them deemed Popery, or they Papilts. As for our Scots Reformers, if Inquiry be made, it will be found, they had the Beginnings of their Knowledge that Way, from the Compilers of it, and that upon all Occasions they heartily joyned in it. As to the first,

I shall grant you may have read the English Liturgy and Roman Missal; especially if you found them both in English, but I do not think you have so read them as to know the Rationale or Ground of either; or that you ever compar'd them, either with the Liturgies of the Primitive, or other so reign Churches at this Time. And for one to deny the Christian Church had Liturgies, before the Church of Rome came to be corrupted either in Worship or Doctrine, requires a good Stock of Brass; but I hope to put that beyond all Question in what I design to subjoyn to this.

You know by the Rules of Reasoning, Affirmanti incumbit probatio: As it's your Part, so I put you

th

tl

an

W

ty

da

Pı

C

fo

T

th

W

ca

qu

th

be

E

en

(a

th

G

W

an

A

an

R

ca

ta

fre

to it, to prove the English and Roman Liturgies to be the same. Do you find in the first any Devotions directed to the bleffed Virgin? Do you find there any Prayers to the Saints departed? Do you find there any Prayers about Purgatory, or the Publick Worship in an unknown Tongue? Do you find, there that the Cup is taken away from the Laity? Is there ment on made there of any more than two Sacraments? Is there any Adoration less or more paid to the Cross or Relicks? In fine, I dare you to let me see where they both agree in any one Point controverted betwixt us and the Papists, and in this if you fail, as I am fure you must, so far consequently should your Credit fail amongst your Hearers, that they should never hereafter take any thing from you, on your bare Word. Matters of Fact, and fuch this is, are only probable by Witnesses, and when attelled bythose of undoubted Credit, (tho' fome thousand Years ago) are to have equal Credit with that, and fuch this is, which happen'd in our own, or our Fathers Time. Truth may be faid to be immortal; what sonce true must still be always true, otherways the whole Credibility of Reveal'd Religion must fall. I as firmly believe the Incarnation of our LORD and Saviour JESUS CHRIST, as if I had liv'd in the second or third Century, and that upon the Authority of the Evangelists, &c. I as well believe Julius Cafar was murther'd in the Senate-House by those two ungrateful Wretches Brutus and Cassius, upon the Testimony of the Roman Historians, as I believe that glorious Martyr K. Charles the First was murder'd by those two Bands of rebellious Schismaticks, the Presbyterians and Independants of Britain, who like Herod and Pontius. Pilate joyn'd Hands in that nefarious Parricide. And fo, if I prove in what follows, (as I hope I shall) by the Testimonies of unexceptionable Authority; that the English Liturgy is free from all the Corruptions of Popery; I think it cannot miss to open the Eyes of all unbyassed Readers, and this I shall endeavour to do as demonstratively as Matter of Fact can allow of. And so we shall come close to the Question in Hand.

to 15

re

br

ck

y ?

O

re

ou.

ne

nd

ar

ur

ny

a,

nd

10

lit

ur

be

ie,

li-

on

as

nd

. I

he

ru-

an

K.

ids

dep_{i-}

nd

by (

the

nd .

That the Liturgies of the Church of England and Rome do agree in some things is not denied: We with them worship the same GOD in Trinity and Unity; they with us agree in all the fundamental Articles of Faith. That the Church of Rome was once Orthodox, is not denied by any Protestant I know of; she furnished the Christian Church with many glorious Martyrs and Confeffors, as well from the Laity as Clergy, who bore Testimony for the Truth, and confirmed it with their Blood; Then the Doctrine of that Church was pure and undefiled, in after Ages Corruptions came to creep into her Doctrine, and so consequently into her Worship. And therefore when the Doctrine and Worship of the Church came to be reformed, and the Liturgy of the Church of England to be compiled, those imployed for that end, as they were careful to avoid the Errors (and to be fure none knew them better) so were they equally careful (and indeed upon as good Ground) to retain what was agreeable to the Word of GOD, and Practice of the Apostles and the Primitive Church, rightly applying that Advice of the Apostle: Be ye followers of me, as I am of Christ: And in so far does the English and Roman Liturgies agree. Must the Liturgy then be called the Mass, because in it that excellent Prayer taught by our SAVIOUR is commanded to be frequently used? In it the Decalogue repeated?

Lit

par

Rh

De

itar

Boo

I th

read

mal

you

yon

der wer

emi

thei

and

Occ

Fac

fron rect

Rei

milb

bein

Edu

In w on e

Con

Laity

Con

form

tures.

ed b

I

In it the Plaims alternately fung or faid? The Te Deum by divine Inspiration composed, and alternately fung by St. Ambrofe and St. Augustine at the Baptism of that illustrious Convert? The (a) Magnificat endited by the Bleffed Virgin upon her being inspired by the HOLY GHOST? The (b) Benedictus miraculously composed and suring by Zacharias immediately after his Mouth was opened at the Circumcission of his Son John? The (t) Nunc Dimittis, or Song of good old Simeon composed and sung by him, upon his meeting our SA-VIOUR in the Temple when he came to be prefented? Now as those divine Hymns made still a Part of the Devotions of the Primitive Church. would you have us lay them aside, because they are in the Mass Book? Are they to be found no where else? Are they not in the holy Scriptures? At that rate may you not as well call St. Luke's Gofpel Popery as the English Liturgy? How can you vindicate finging David's Pfalms? Is not St. Luke's Authority as good as his? Were not the bleffed Virgin, Zacharias and Simeon, &c. as divinely Infpired as he? Its truly odd Reasoning, because Papists use them, we should not: At that rare because Papists keep the first Day of the Week for the Christian Sabbath, we may come to think of chusing any other Day, as Calvin was willing to do. And it has been faid, that some of our Zeas lots for that same Reason once entertained such a Thought. But I shall aftert nothing of which I am not fure, however this I'm fure of, the Reafoning is close and equal. I shall say nothing of the Excellency and Usefulness of that admirable

^{· (}a) Luke 1. 16. (b) Luke 1.68. (c) Luke 2. 26. Liturgy

Liturgy, in the first Composure of it, when compar'd with those extemporary and undigested Rhapsodies now used by too many in their publick Devotions, even to the Reproach of the Protestant Name.

Te

r-

at

a)

et

6)

d-

ed

¢)

n-

4-

e-

ill

h,

re

re

At

0-

Dú

25

ed

n-

(e

e-

or

of

to

a=

1 2

ch

2-

of

le

6:

37

As I have sufficiently vindicated the Service Book from the Imputation you put upon it, so do I think, if you will duly consider what is already said, you will find it a harder Task to make your Affertion good, than probably at first you took it to be. But to put the Question beyond all manner of Doubt, we will next confider the Compilets and Authorifers, whether they were Papists or not, and what Opinion the most eminent Divines both at home and abroad had of them and it, what Deference was paid them, and with what Respect they treated them on all Occasions. And this being precise Matter of Fact, I shall advance nothing but what I bring from authentick Writings, and for your Ease direct you where to find it:

I shall pass over what Steps were made in the Reign of Hen. VIII. towards reforming the Romish Servite, A: 1537; 1540, and 1543. that not being very material at present, and shall come to Edward VI. the first Protestant King of England. In whose Reign A. 1547, Dec. 2. the Convocation of the Clergy unanimously agreed, that the Communion should be given in both Kinds to the Laity as well as to the Clergy, and appointed a Committee of Bishops, &c. to draw up an uniform Order of Communion, according to the holy Scriptures, and the Practice of the Primitive Church. And thereafter the whole Service Book was compiled by a select Number of thirteen of the most eminent Divines, both for Piety and Learning, then in England,

England, which was afterwards authorised by the Parliament, and a full Convocation of both the Provinces of Canterbury and York. The Compilers were,

Tho. Cranmer, Archb. of Canterbury.
Henry Holbeck, Bishop of Lincoln.
George Day, Bishop of Chichester.
Nicholas Ridley, Bishop of Rochester.
Dr. Taylor, Dean of Lincoln.
Dr. Redman, Dean of Westminster.

Tho. Godrick, Bishop of Ely.

John Skip, Bishop of Hereford.

Thomas Thirlbie, Bp. of Winchester.

Dr. May, D. of St. Pauls.
Dr. Hayns, Dean of Exeter.

Rid. Coxe, Dean of Christ-Church, Oxford.

Mr. Tho. Robison, Archdeacon of Leicester.

T

it

W

yo

by

th

V

ker

in to Br

Sp

con

nul

tai eve

mo he

M

tro

in A

vor

and

of (

you

me

wit

feal

fam

wh

time

These were the Compilers, the Authorisers were The Convocation, the King and Parliament, An. 1548, with this Encomium; which at this Time by THE AID OF THE HOLY GHOST, with uniform Agreement is by them concluded. It was again revised and confirmed An. 1551, and so continued until the Death of that young Prince. But being discharged in Queen Mary's Reign, and Popery re-established; it was again after her Death introduced and confirmed 1mo Eliz. An. 1558, and so continued 'till the first of K. James, when it was again revised and confirmed, and so continued 'till after the Restoration of K. Charles the Second, that it came again to be revised by the (d) whole Convocation, and confirmed by Parliament.

1-

of

of

of

ls.

of

of

d.

h-

re

n.

by

m

if-

ed

ery

n-

nd

it

ti-

he

he nt.

nis

This is a short History of the English Liturgy, of its Birth and Progress to this Day. And now we shall examine a little into the Characters of those who compiled it, for they must be all Papists, if you spoke Truth: What Part Archbishop Cranmer acted in the Reformation is clearly to be feen by any that will please to read but so much of the English History, as contains the Lives of Hen. VIII. Edw. VI. and Queen Mary. Sir Richard Baker in his History tellus, that Cranmer for his Skill in Divinity was picked out, and * fent to Rome, to prove the Marriage of Henry VIII. with his Brother Prince Arthur's Widow, Katharine of Spain, to have been from the first beginning of it contrary to the Laws of GOD, and therefore null and void. We find him afterwards maintaining the same Argument at the Emperor's Court, even to the Conviction of Cornelius Agrippa, the most learned Man there at that Time; and indeed he fo well fatisfied the King and Clergy in that Matter, which had for a long time not only troubled them, but even most of the Universities in Europe, that immediately thereafter the Divorce was pronounced by the Bishops and Clergy, and he for his good Services promoted to the See of (e) Canterbury. By what follows in that History, you will fee he was all along the great Instrument of forwarding the Reformation, and that in it, with admirable Piety he persevered, 'till at last he fealed it with his Blood, dying a Martyr for the fame in the Flames at Oxford, March 21, 1556, where two other famous Martyrs, Ridley and Latimer had suffered after the same manner some five

^{*} P. 281. (e) P. 282.

five Months before. (f) Nay, in that Year no fewer than eighty four Persons suffered Martyrdom, for refusing to leave the English Liturgy, and joyn with the Mass. Ridley, Bishop of Rochester, who suffered before Cranmer (as is said) was esteemed the most learned and pious of all the Reformers. In short, as to the rest of the Compilers, there was not one of them that lived 'till Q. Mary's Time, but were either MARTIRS or Confessors, because they would not return to Po-At that Time there were of the Laity as well as Clergy, Women as well as Men, to the Number of two hundred seventy seven, (g) that fuffered Martydom for adhering to the Englist, and refusing to joyn in the Roman Liturgy. Dr. Cox, Councellor and Almoner to K. Edward, and one of the Compilers, in Q. Mary's Persecution (with a good many others) fled to Frankfort, and there kept up the English Liturgy, 'till in Q. Eliz. Time he came home, and was confecrated Bishop of Lincoln.

Thus, and by these holy Martyrs and Confessors, was the Service Book compiled and used; and is it possible there can be any so obstinate as to affirm there can be a more convincing Proof advanced for any Matter of Fact, than this is, to prove the English Liturgy free from the Corruptions complained of in the Mass Book, than that such a Number of eminent, pious, and learned Divines, and others, chose rather to suffer most painful Deaths, than leave the one, and joyn with the other? Will Mr. M——say they did

that they

large

will

and

and

wha

Tim

of C

that

Rom

for t bani

(as noun

and

lieve

must there

both

no P

foun

but !

Pope

M.

mon

that not a mihi

forei its Hea verf

the

It

⁽f) Baker, p. 321. (g) Speed, p. 1142.

d

r,

15

C

1-11

r

)-

y

0 z)

3-

y.

d,

1-

t,

2.

ſ-

te

g

in k,

d er

d

y

d

did not understand it so well as he does? Or that they were mad; or that it was not for this they fuffered? I do not think that even the large Share of Affurance of which he is Master, will allow him to affirm any of these Things; and if he does not, the Question is at an End, and Mr. M—— must acknowledge he affirmed what is not true. It is undeniable that at that Time it had not enter'd in the Minds, neither of Clergy, nor Laity in Scotland, or England, that there were any of the Corruptions in the Romish Worship retained in the English Liturgy; for the Laity as well as the Clergy were robbed, banished, and put to Death, for no other Cause (as I have observed) but that they would not renounce the Worship of the Church of England, and joyn with that of Rome. If they had believed them to have been one and the fame, they must be reckoned no better than so many Self-Murtherers: That they had Learning to understand both, is fufficiently acknowledged, fo they had . no Plea of Ignorance to plead; you would have found them then defend it against the Papists, but no Body alledging against them that it was Popery, no not the Puritans themselves. If Mr. M. will be pleased to let me see a clearer Demonstration of Matter of Fact than this is, viz. that the English Liturgy and the Mass Book, were not at that Time thought one and the same, Erit mihi magnus Apollo.

It follows next to enquire, what Opinion foreign Divines had of the English Liturgy and its Compilers, this will drive the Nail to the Head, and put the Question beyond all Controversy, and I shall advance none against whom the least Exception can be brought: Nay, I am mistaken

[14]

mistaken if you do not pretend to have them all on your Side whom I shall bring to vouch for me.

prov

Forn

ftors

any

Pro

nion

told

noth

dola

had

Cen

Cran

Cure

stian

or n

Chu

mory

not (

Paft

the

fubr

nish

Ref

ting

con

mor

No

(

E

I should think it sufficient for all, that Peter Martyr, Martin Bucer, and Paulus Fagius, three eminent Promoters of the Reformation abroad, gave Testimony for the English Service; they were brought over in Edw. VI. Time, the first was placed Divinity Reader in Oxford, and the other two in Cambridge. (b) All of them joyned very heartily in the Worship of the Church of England. (i) Bucer speaks thus of it: I give Thanks to GOD who hath given you Grace to reform those Ceremonies in such a Purity; for I have found nothing in it (speaking of the Service Book) which is not taken out of the Word of GOD, or is in the least contrary to it, being rightly interpreted. You pretend these Divines were Presbyterians; I am sure they were not esteemed Papists in Q. Mary's Time, (k) for then the Bodies of Bucer and Fagius were taken out of their Graves, and burnt as Hereticks. I think these three famous Witnesses might satisfy you; but lest they should not, to clear you farther, the next I shall advance is your great Friend Calvin, whose Authority you cannot honestly disclaim. The Duke of Somerset then Protector of England, had such an Opinion of him, that immediately upon the Liturgy's being compiled, he fent it over to him, and had his Opinion returned, in a Letter he wrote to him, in these Words: As for the Form of Prayers and Ecclefiastical Ceremonies, I much ap-⁽h) Eaker, p.310. (i) Scrip. Ang. p.455. (k) Bak. p.321.

SIL

for

eter

ree

ad,

ney

irst

the

ned

ot

ive

orm

no-

his

east

re-

ure

ry's

Fa-

rnt

lit-

iot,

15

you

So-

0-

Li-

im,

he

ap-

321.

FOUR

prove that they should be established as a constant Form, from which it may not be lawful for the Pastors to recede in the Execution of their Charge (1). Can any thing be clearer than this? He advises the Protector to enjoyn the Use of it. What Opinion would Calvin have had of Mr. M. if he had told him what he told his Hearers, that it was nothing but the Mals in English; that it was Idolatry, and it was not lawful to use it? If he had been in Geneva, he would have inflicted the Censures of the Church upon him. (m) Calvin calls Cranmer, A most accomplished Prelate, who hath the Cure not only of England, but of the whole Christian World. Doth this clear him of Popery or not?

Beza in Resp. ad Saraviam, speaking of the Church of England, says: It happened in our Memory, that she had Men of that Calling, (viz. Bishops) not only constant Martyrs for GOD, but also excellent Pastors and Doctors. (n) He desires those under the Government of Grindal Bishop of London, to submit to him, holding him worthy of much Punishment that should despise his Authority.

(o) Saravia confesses himself to wonder at the Reformers in England, for not any way deviating from the antient Church of Christ. I shall conclude my Geneva Counters with the Testimony of the samous Isaac Causabon; he says, (p) No Church doth come nearer to the Form of the Primitive Church than it doth, so that they who envy her

(p) Prefat. ad Exercit.

⁽¹⁾ Bucer Epist. ad Protest. Angl. (m) Ep. ad Cranmer. (n) Ad Grindal Ep. 3. (o) De Minst. Grad. Ep. ad Lett.

Happiness, are constrained to extol it. Farther, if the essential Part of a Church be enquired into, and what either necessarily belongeth to the Doctrine of Salvation, or the Decency of Worship, then praise and magnified be GOD, no Church upon Earth can be found, which professeth the Faith, and resembleth the Form of the antient Church more then she doth. And now to fumm up our Foreign Evidence, I shall give you the Mind of the whole Reformed Gallican Church, in the Words of the famous Mr. Moulin, and may very confidently do fo, for none knew it better; he in answer to a Papilt, upbraiding him (q) with the Discipline of the Church of England, doth avouch the Dignity and Agreeablenels of it, telling him, Our Agreeableness is such, that it hath been a Refuge to our persecuted Churches, and consequently the excellentest Servants of God in our Churches, as Calvin, Beza, Zanchy, Oc. have often written Letters full of Respelt to the Prelates of England.

I think the above Testimonies make my part of the Argument good, putting the same beyond all Question. I come now to the last Proof I propos'd, and that is to be brought from our own Resormers here in Scotland: If I am not deceived, it was from England they had their Education that way, it was that Candle that lighted them into the Resormation, and accordingly the first publick Step that was made towards it, was an Ordinance, that the English Liturgy should be publickly read in all the Churches of Scotland on Sundays and Holidays.

En

mo

the

tha

of

 $E^{d'}$

it v tio

nou

agr

hac

В.

the

See

Infl

veft

inst

ver

beer

Cle

tell

Jup: infe

ligh

ed

En

foll

⁽q) Buckler of Faith, p. 271.

tf

nd

al-

nd

be

the

th.

I

led ous

for

ift,

the

ity

ee-

our

test

za,

Re-

art

oe-

ast ght

If

ey

at ons

as

he

all

zys.

In

In that unfortunate Battel fought betwixt the English and the Scots, a little before K. James V. his Death, there were taken Prisoners, amongst others, the Earls of Cassils and Glencairne, those Hen. VIII, took care should be instructed in the Reformation, (so far as it was advanced,) and that with a View (James V. being then dead) of a Match betwixt his young Son Prince Edward, and our Infant Queen Mary, and fo far it went, that (being in Love with the Reformation) they got the Earl of Arran, then Governour, to call a Parliament, where the Match was agreed upon, and no doubt had been confummated, if Cardinal Beoton (fearing the Reformation) had not fallen upon Ways to disappoint it. B. Burnet, in his Abridgment of the Hiltory of the Reformation, tells us, (r) That Cassils got these Seeds of Knowledge at Lambeth, under Cranmer's Influence, that produced afterwards a great Harvest in Scotland; also that the other Prisoners were instructed to such a Degree, that they came to have very different Thoughts of the Changes that had been made in England, from what the Scotish Clergy had possessed them with, &c. Buchanan tells us, (s) There were at this Time, seven of the Supream Order, Noblemen, and twenty four of the inferior Quality, confiderable Gentlemen, all inlighten'd in England. Nay, were not Arran's two Chaplains, Rough and Guilliam, who preached then publickly to the Court, Church of England Men? This will appear by what tollows:

In the Time of Q. Mary of England her Per-

⁽r) P. 279, 280. (f) P. 532.

fecution, some of those who fled from thence, took Refuge in Scotland, and there did not only help the Light which began to shine, but made the Sun to break up more clearly than before; for then came from England into Scotland, (t) William Harlaw, John Willox, and (u) John Knox. That holy Martyr (x) Mr. George Wishart had his Education in Cambridge, and returned to his own Country, An. 1544, to promote the Truth in it; he stuck close to the Principles he had fucked in there to the last. (y) Knox tells us, that at his Death he administer'd the Sacrament after a set Form. Mr. John Spotswood, another of our Reformers, was educated in England, under the Care of Archbishop Cranmer, as is to be feen in the Life of Archbishop Spotswood. our Reformers had such an Opinion of the Do-Etrine and Worship of the Church of England, that on all Occasions, they chearfully joyned with her. There is not one to be named amongst them, that called her Liturgy Popish, or thought Communion with her unlawful: Did not all those who fled in Persecution joyn with her? (z) Friar Alexander Seaton in King James V's Time fled to England, and there died the Duke of Suffolk's Chaplain. Alexander Aless fled to England, and was there in such Esteem with Henry VIII, that he was called the King's Scholar. (a) There you will find him in the Convocation maintaining against Stockely Bishop of London, that there were but two Sacraments. (b) Bishop Burnet in his History tells us, that he trans-

4114

lated

late

Ule

Fyfe

ther

liber

Sarı

refy.

Con

ftian

vil,

who

publ

(by nate

ran h

there

othe

Year

and I

the 1

vide

wher

then

ing t

quest

had j

he ha

he h

Book

furely

it the ther Opin

⁽t) Spotswood's Hist. p. 93. (u) Knox's Hist. p. 99, (x) Spotswood, p. 79. (y) P. 67. (z) Spotswood, p. 65. (a) Spotswood, p. 66. (b) Ad An. 1549.

e,

de

e;

īl-

0x.

ad

his

ith

us,

ent

ler

be

All

0-00

nd,

ith

gft

ght

all

er?

I's

ike

to 10-

ca-

on-Bi-nf-

99,

ted

lated the English Liturgy into Latin for Bucer's Ule, being imployed in that by Latimer. Fyfe, and Mr. Dudal, two other Reformers staid there as long as he. John Mac-Bee was there liberally entertained by Nicolas Saxton, Bishop of Sarum, (c) Sir John Borthwick w saccused of Herely, for maintaining the English Liturgy was Commendable, andought to be * used by all Christians: Did he think it would raise the Devil, or was Popery? Friar Thomas Guilliam, of whom mention is already made, was the first publick Preacher of the Reformation in Scotland, (by whose Sermons John Knox was first illuminated and converted,) after the Regent Arran his first Apostatising, fled into England, and there joyned with that Church, (d) as did his other Chaplain, John Rough, who for some Years preach'd in the Cities of Berwick, Carlifle, and Newcastle, and that not in a Corner, but in the publick Churches, and was afterwards provided in a Benefice by the Archbishop of York, where he lived 'till Q. Mary's Persecution, and then fled into Friesland; but after this returning to London, An. 1557, was apprehended, and questioned by Bonner, Bishop of London, if he had preached fince his Return? He answer'd, he had preached none, but that in some Places he had read the Prayers in the Communion Book, fet forth in Edward VI. Time. furely he would not have done, if he had thought it the Mass in English; nay, he had a quite other Thought about it; for being asked his Opinion of it, he told he approved of it, being in all Points agreeable to the Word of God: If he had made such a Declaration to Mr. M. he had surely condemned him for a Papist; tho Bonner did not in the least take him for that. And now to trouble you no more with the Scots Reformers, those advanced being more than sufficient; yet (like those who keep their best Wine 'till the last) I shall end with John Knox, the greatest Authority I can produce in this Case; for he alone might satisfy Mr. M. but I am afraid I put him out of Court with him; however at all Hazards I like to tell the Truth.

⁽c) Spotswood, p. 70. (*) Petrie, p. 180. (d) Sp. p. 73.

D 2 ing

(e) In his Admonition to the Professors of the Truth in England, he tells us he preached publickly in their Churches in Subordination to their Bishops, and before K. Edw. VI. In his Admonition to the Commonalty in Scotland, (b) he fays: GOD gave that Reverend Father in GOD, Thomas Cranmer, Strength to cut the Knot of devilish Sophistry. In his Exhortation to England for their speedy receiving Christ's Gospel, dated Jan. 12, 1559, he calls the Church of England happy, In that GOD, by the Power of his Spirit had destroyed the Yoak of her Spiritual Captivity, &c. And a little after fays, That the Church of England in K. Edward's Days was a delectable Garden, planted by GOD's own Hand. In his Letter to Q. Eliz. he thanks GOD, (g) That it had pleased him out of eternal Goodness, to exalt her Head, to the Manifestation of his Glory, and the Extirpation of Idolatry. This is not to fay the Service Book is Idolatry, or Communion with the Church of England is unlawful. I could add a great deal more

to

 \mathbf{P}

C

M

25 tic

21 wa

and

be

wa

us,

ver

an

T

din

are

SA

as:

tha

of tra

WI

and

de

tio

tio

Ki

to

Do

tion

⁽e) P. 52 (f) P. 51. (g) Hift. 224.

od:

M.

ho

nat.

cots

fuf-

ine

the

ale;

1 a-

the

ub-

heir

Ad-

) he

OD,

de-

for

ted

land

had

And

din

ant-

liz.

him

Ma-

Ido-

k is

of

ore

to

to this Purpose from him, but shall in the last Place, give you the Judgment of the Lords of the Congregation, from whom we may take the Mind of our whole Body of Resormers, Laity as well as Clergy, as we have it in the authentick Histories of those Times.

It is recorded by Spotfwood, p. 140, Knox, p. 218, Buchanan, p. 604: That Kirkaldie of Grange was Sent by the Lords of the Congregation to treat of, and enter into a strict Confederacy with Queen Elizabeth, to forward the Reformation in Scotland, as it was in England. Afterwards (h) Buchanan tells us, That we being delivered from the Gallican Slavery by English Assistance, subscribed to the Religion and Worship of that Church: The Prayers and Thanksgivings made use of in St. Giles's Church Edinburgh, after the Pacification at Leith, July 1560, are a clear Demonstration of our ONENESS and SAMENESS then with the Church of England, as are also those in the Scotish Liturgy composed at that Time, and afterwards used in all the Churches of Scotland; which, for Brevity's fake, I omit to transcribe. At that Time we enter'd into a League with England, for the maintenance of the Doctrine and Worship of that Church; far different indeed from that accurfed Covenant or Combination was enter'd into afterwards, for the Extirpation of that Church, even in Opposition to the King's lawful Authority; which we may come to enquire a little into in the Sequel.

And now to put all beyond the least manner of Doubt. The very first Step the Lords of the Congregation made towards the Reformation (as I have already faid) was to appoint the Liturgy of England to be used: It was ordered upon the 23d of Dec. 1557. As we have it from (i) Calderwood and (k) Knox, and in his Words you shall have it. The Lords and Barons, professing our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ Convened frequently in Council, in which these Heads were concluded. First, it is thought expedient, advised, and ordained, that in all Parishes of this Realm, the Common Prayer be read weekly, on Sundays and other Festival Days, with Lessons in the Old and New Testament conform to the Book of Common Prayer. (1) Petrie and (m) Spotfwood give the same Account. I had hope of these four Historians, (three of them being your own) and the fourth of as good Credit as the other three, and so more than sufficient to prove this Matter of Fact; which you must take to be the Mind of the whole Protestant Part of the Nation at that time, both Clergy and Laity. For, if there had been but any one to have cryed out with you, that those Prayers were nothing but the Mass in English, sure some other of these forecited Historians would never have past it by in silence. Nay, how ridiculous is it to think, the Nation then would have been at so much Pains to turn out the Mass in Latin, only to have it in English. Indeed in my Opinion if the Mass be Idolatry, as you say it is, it had been better to have let it continue in Latin, than to translate it into English, it was less understood and so it could do less harm.

And

tha

and

the

fters

cien

10 11

mor

nies

men

is fi

Ref

Fam

his Ch.

tick

end

pacy

Vin

vine

and

on. and

ftano

that

inde

ther

occa

and they beca

ned

fo I

E

⁽i) Calderwood. p. 5. (k) Knox. p. 112. (l) Petrie. p. 129. (m) Spotfw. p. 117.

And now I come at last to the Authorisers, that I may not fail in any thing that I promised, and then I shall summ up the Argument.

of

ne

ıl-

all

nd

n-

ft,

be

ys,

m

n)

of

ur

ve

be

he

ty.

ve

0-

er

er

u-ve

in ny

it

ue

as

ie.

nd

Ed. VI. the Duke of Somerset then Protector, the venerable Clergy in Convocation, the Ministers of State, and the then Parliament, are sufficiently cleared of the Charge of Popery, by their so intirely settling the Reformation; but if any more be requisite, you may apply the Testimonies of the Foreign and Scots Divines beforementioned, and that will make it up. Q. Eliz. is sufficiently Vindicated by her restoring the Reformation after her Sifter's Death. And K. James has given great Lustre to the same by his excellent Writings. The glorious Martyr Ch. I. was indeed forely accused by the Schismaticks of Britain with being a Papist, for what end and how true, we came (tho' too late) by fad Experience to know, (Liturgy and Episcopacy being his Crimes;) and I'm easily able to Vindicate him if there were occasion, both by the Testimonies of foreign and domestick Divines; but his own most celebrated Writings, and dying Words, have put it beyond all Questi-The Laws made by Ch. II. against Papists, and the Indulgences given to Withigs, notwithstanding their frequent Rebellions, are so recent, that I need fay nothing of him. K. James VII. indeed was Popish, and the Rebellion in his Father's time obliging him to fly beyond the Seas occasioned it; however he was a great Benefactor to the Williams, he gave them an Indulgence, and they thanked him for it at that time, tho' they changed their Mind a little afterwards, and became Ungrateful. As for those who governed fince, you have nothing to fay against them, fo I need fay nothing for them.

I have now gone through what I proposed, without biding you take any thing on my Word. I have advanced nothing without sufficient Authority adduced for it, and have directed you to the Book and Page. I have vindicated the Liturgy from being the same with the Mass-Book, by letting you fee that in feveral most material Points they differ. The Brevity I restricted my felf to, would not allow me to take Notice of all; but what I have done, is sufficient to refute your bold, unjust, and scandalous Assertion, and establish my own. As to the Compilers, I have put it beyond Question. If the Mass-Book, (as Mr. M. fays) and the Service-Book be all one, it has been a strange Piece of Madness for those learned and pious Men to have suffered themselves to be consumed in the Flames, because they would not part with the one and joyn in the other! Who could understand the Worship of the Romish Church better than they, who were educated in it, and were eminent for Piety and Learning before they left it? They were never branded, either with Madness or Ignorance, to suffer so much for Trifles. I have made it very clear that all our foreign Divines had a very different Opinion of it from Mr. M. They declared it free from the Corruptions of Rome, and agreeable to the Scriptures and Primitive Church, and feriously recommended the Use of it, which, to be fure, they would never have done, if it had in the least savoured of Popery; but they knew a little better what Popery was than Mr. M. does.

As to our Scots Reformers, I have proved they had their Education from the Church of England; to it in Time of Persecution they fled; in it they served, and with it on all Occasions

hey

do

Shi

10,

the

SI

all

Ch

lan

nai

im

tha

Ch

am

the

Ho

liev

can

Sig

mu

in n

Par

gy]

to I

a P lose

you

Th

leng

take no

you

Judg

d.

u-

ou

he

S-

a-

a-

ice

re-

, I

ok,

all

for red

be-

oyn

or-

ho

Pie-

vere

nce, le it very

de-

and

rch,

iich,

had

ew a

they

Eng-

led;

ions

they

they joyned, which furely they never would have done, if that Church either in Doctrine or Worship had been tainted with Popery. If it had been fo, would ever the Lords of the Congregation, the Representatives of the whole PROTE-STANT Part of the Nation, those who run all Hazards in altering the Constitution of the Church, and that to banish the Mass from Scotland? Would they, I fay, by a publick Ordinance have established the English Liturgy, if it had been the same with the Mass-Book? It's impossible for a Man in his Wits ever to think it. I wonder where Mr. M. has made that Discovery that lay fo long hid from the whole Reformed Church both at home and abroad. I am fure amongst them there were some that saw into these Matters farther than Mr. M. I know blind Horses are hardiest, but he would make me believe that a blind Man may imagine he fees what cannot be discovered by those who have their Sight, even tho affilted by the finest Glasses.

I have now made good all I proposed with as much Brevity, Faithfulness, and Perspicuity, as was in my Power. And if I a Laick have proved my Part so clearly; you who pretend to be a Clergy Man should think your self much more bound to maintain what you preach from the Pulpit, a Place called the Chair of Verity. If it should lose that Name through your Fault, (as I think you have put it in Hazard) I do not know what Thanks you will get from your Brethren. I challenge you to make good what you faid; I will take nothing on your Word hereafter (and I hope no body else will in Matters of Religion:) If you fail, I give you Warning. I will apply to the Judge Competent, to fend me to the Pulpit, and you you to the Plough. In fine, as for this Point, I think it may be easy for any considering Reader to determine on which Side of the Question the greatest Certainty lies, viz. Whether the English Liturgy and the Roman Missal be the same or not? But now I will proceed to try if I can shoot you out of your own Bow, I will raise the Cry of Popery against you, without bidding you take any thing on my Word, tho' I affure you I have been at as much Pains to compare the Popish and Presbyterian Tenets, as ever you was to do the other; what I avouch, I shall prove from the Writings of the most famous Jesuits abroad, and the most zealous Presbyterians at home. For Brevity's fake I shall pass by several Things common to both, and shall only at present take under my Consideration your so much applauded Doctrine of the King Depoling Power, and your beloved Covenant: As to the first, I shall draw a Parallel betwixt the Jesuit's Doctrine in that Point and you. And as for the last, I shall compare it with the Holy League. As to the first.

Dom. Soto de Instit. & Jure says (m) Kings receive their Power from their Kingdoms. (n) Rutherford, Royal Power is radically in the People. This is the Foundation on which that damnable Doctrine is founded. A Doctrine unknown to the Apostles or Primitive Christians.

Pope U.ban, causa 23. q. 5. Can. Excommunicat. It's not homicide to kill any excommunicated Per-It was fuch Bulls as these that gave Encouragement to the Purthers of the Henries the III. and IV of France.

Buchanan

m

H

en

of

Ch

ma

or .

ting

a li

non

in]

for

Gui

Th

邓ai thei

did

Tha

Th

Rea

Arm

ral .

He e tal

genit

ple o vanc

wad pare

A

⁽m) L. 4. Q. 4. A. 2. (n) Lex Rex p. 4. 10.

Buchanan de jure Regni, Ministers may excommunicate Princes, and a King after he is cast into Hell by Excommunication, is unworthy to live or enjoy Life upon Earth. And in consequence of that, and other such Doctrines was King Charles I. barbarously murdered by British Schifmaticks.

(o) Sion's Plea advises us To spare neither Father or Mother, if they stand in the Way to hinder the setting up of the Standard of JESUS CHRIST. And a little after, They mis'd cutting the Basilick Vein, none but that can cure the Pleurisy of State. Which, in plain English is, we must cut the King's Throat for the publick Good.

I

ler he fh

t?

Cry

ike

ive

nd

he

ind

or

munled

our

aw hat

m-

ft.

re-

ple.

ble

to

icat.

per-

ave

ries

man

This he Verbatim borrows from two Jesuits, Guignard and Scribanius. Antiq. Theat. Honoris. They say France was sick, and they must cut the Basilick Vein to heal her. And Scribanius blames them for committing a great Error, in that they did not cut that Vein on Bartholomew's Eve: That is, that they then omitted to cut the Throats of the King of Navarre and P. of Conde. Read the Catechism composed for the Parliament-Army, p. 14, 15, of the seventh Edition.

Altare Damasenum says, All Kings have a natural Hatred against Christ. Vind. Philadelphus: He errs not much that says, in all Kings there is a mortal Hatred against the Gospel, &c. Royal Primogeniture gives no Right to Kings, except the People chuse them. Mene Tekel. (p) I could advance a great deal more, were I not wearied wading so long in this stinking Puddle. Compare what I have said with what is said on that

⁽o) P. 240. (p) P. 10. E 2

Subject by Doleman, Bellarmine, Suarez, Mariana, Sanctarellas, &c. and you will find the Presbyterians have out-done their Masters the Jesuits in this unchristian Doctrine.

And now as to the Covenant, we may freely speak our Mind about it now, seeing it stands condemned by Act of Parliament, Char. II. p. 1. Seff. 2. Cap. 2 As for its Original, it has the fame with the Holy League of France, they were both hatched in Hell and brought up by the Devil; they are Sisters of the same Mother, the younger as like the elder as one Egg is to another; the Elder was nurs'd by the Jesuits, and the Younger by the Scots Presbyterians; in that I am sure like Simeon and Levi, Brethren in Iniquity. In both you will find a Combination for mutual Affistance to extirpate Heresy (as they falfely pretended) without the King's Authority, and for that Purpose levying Forces, which both of them turned against the King; at last they both brought the same Fruit, viz. a Jealousy of their King's Religion without any Ground, and a War of Religion against them, who (tho' they were the same Religion) yet they would make the World believe both were Hereticks. A League with Strangers, and Armies raised in Kingdoms against their natural Princes, who had given them no other Provocation, but their too much Indulgence and Favour. Kings driven from their principal Cities, and the Fire of Civil War blown up by feditious Preachers. The Superstitious People made tributary to a few ambitious Mebils, weak Consciences instructed to cut the Throat of their Kings, and all that stood in their Way for the Love of God, and to gain Paradife. Frequent fallings, redoubled Debotions, prophetical pul his rect oth SU two inst Gra wha fang and mul fo e cerr this efta gine Rela they to n mof in it

> Fran that 15 F half lity. then Reg

> > his

torn

a,

ein

ly

ds

1.

ne

re

ne

nnd

I

ni-

or

y,

th ey of

d

ey

A

in

ad

00 en

il

er-

us he ir fe.

al

cal Inspirations, all to persuade the deluded Populace, that GOD favoured their Rebellion as his own Caule, and that their Leavers were directed by none but the Holy Ghost, and had no other Aim, but advancing the Kingdom of JE-SUS CHRIST, and they both at last brought two great Monarchs to untimely Death. I could instance in a great deal more such fruit, as the Graves of Sodom and Apples of Comograp, but what' is advanced sufficiently proves the Con= fanguinity of the Poly League of the Jesuits, and the folemn League of the Presbyterians. I must be so just to them as to allow they were not fo exactly alike one to another, but that a difcerning Eye would find fome Difference; but in this only, the one was for maintaining the Religion established by Law in France, which they imagined without Ground the King was to destroy. The other was enter'd into for overturning the Religion in Britain established by Law, which they faw their pious and religious King positive to maintain. Judge then, which of these were most innocent, or rather if the last did not both in its Intention and Consequences out-do the tormer.

That we had the Covenant originally from France, and that a Copy of it was sent over by that crasty Minister of State Cardinal Richlieu, is plain, when we consider the Letter sign'd by half a Dozen of our chief Covenanting Robislity, and sent by Mr. Colvil to him, and to the then Infant King of France, who was under the Regency and Management of that Minister, for his Assistance in their Rebellion. (q) And we

⁽⁹⁾ Bibliotheca Regia, P. 294.

an

an

inc

to

the

of

Pro

cef

fov

unl

to

and

Ca

gui Re

ry

pre

tell

lofa

 \mathbf{D}_{il}

fro

Ap

and

In

be

fen

We

W

who

gai

La

deer

La

the

cul.

Year with an Army in England. The Marquiss de Rochfort in his Memoirs tells us, That he was fent Express from France to the Scots Army in England to encourage them. And now I think I have made good to a Tittle what I took in Hand, viz. That the Jesuits and Presbyterians are united in the most damnable Doctrine of Killing and Deposing Kings; that your Solemn League and Covenant, by which these three Kingdoms were teduced to Slavery, and so much Blood was shed, was a Transcript of the Holy League sent you by your Brethren Rebels in France. Try if you can draw as near a Parallel betwixt the English

Liturgy and the Roman Misfal.

I am obliged before I put an End to this, to take Notice of yours, and some of your Followers of both Sexes unchristian Behaviour towards those in this Place, who retain to the Service of the Church of England: You and they are pleased to say, that all, or the greatest Part of them are giddy-headed, vicious, and scandalous Persons. That they have been so calumniated consists with my particular Knowledge; but the Charge being fo unjust and scandalous, I need give you and them no other Answer, than the common Proverb, That Dogs Bark as they are bred. I do not believe all those of our Communion are Saints; there is good and bad, better and worse amongst them, as there are amongst others; but I would not have you force me on Recriminations. Tcannot fay of them, as Pliny the younger faid of the Christians in his Time to Trajan, That they met every Morning, and by most for lemn Vows bound themselves to commit no Vice nor Wickedness. Yet I am sure many of them do so; and

XC

iss

as

g-

ve

id,

ed

nd

nd

ere

ed,

by

ou

lifb

to ol-

:0-

er-

ey

irt

a-

ni-

e;

IS,

an

we:

u-

er

oft.

on

ny

to 0-

or

o;

and if notwithstanding these solemn Obligations. any of them are guilty of scandalous Practices. inconfistent with their Profession, they have much to account for: Tho' in the mean time, that neither adds to, nor detracts from the Orthodoxy of that Worship. Was not St. Paul a powerful Preacher? And yet in his Time there was an incestuous Corinthian. If you or any of your Tribe fower my Temper any more hereafter with that unhandsom Way of Dealing, you will force me to make an Enquiry that I am unwilling to do; and then perhaps I shall find even in the very Catalogue of your Saints a Black Lift of some guilty even of Beaftiality, Incest, Murther and Rebellion. But I assure you this would be a very disagreeable Task. It's in your Power to prevent it, and I expect you will do it. I must tell you that that was the Way the heathen Philosophers of old treated the Christians, to bring Discredit upon their Religion. As we have it from Justin Martyr, Arnobins, and others of the Apologists; and indeed sometimes they retorted and compared Notes. If I should so treat you, I should but follow their Example, which would be fufficient to vindicate me: But I shall at prefent give you that civil Answer they gave them; Were there not standing Laws to punish them? Why were they not convicted before the Judges, who were ready to hear Accusations brought against them, and to punish them according to those Laws. ?

Are those of the Episcopal Persuasion in Aberdeen, screen'd from the Punishments appointed by Law, for any Crime committed by them? Are there no Judges to be found that will hear an Accusation against them, and do Justice upon them?

I was

I was informed you was witness to the contrary not long ago; that you found Judges swift to hear, and ready to punish; yea, even to extend the Law, as far as it would bear, against them, as (I am informed) may in due time appear. Are there no Acccusers, why do you not employ your Reverend BrotherMr. T- B-n, who in the last Process he managed, deserved so well of the Good Dio Caule, that he never left the Court; nor gave the Judges Rest, Night nor Day, till he got its Enemies punished? Nay, he was so eager in his officious Sollicitations, that he forc'd a Judge (who was no Friend to the Defendants) to give him a very sharp Reprimand from the Bench, even to tell him, . That his Eagerness in that Profecution, made him almost think he was not in a Christian Country. You know where to get an Affife and a Clerk to the Process, I need tell you of neither, for I am told you was Witness to all. Mean time, I would give you, and all your Followers a Christian Advice: (r) Before you behold the Mote in your Neighbour's Eye, take the Beam out of your own: Consider whether you be in a State of Schism or not, (as it would not be hard to prove you are) and the Nature of that Sin; try if you be duly fent, examine your Mission, remember the Punishment God was pleased to inflict on him, who dared to put his Hands to the Ark to hold it up, even when it was a tottering. In the time of the famous fore-cited Martyr and Apollogist, Justin, Crescens the Philosopher traduced the Christians as atheistical and irreligious; the Answer he made Crescens was, That he talked abo

ed

wit

and

CH

dife

per fim

too

if h

it. I

gen

falf

the

I

Ma

ply,

Jeit

Inju

 \mathbf{M} whi

any

hav

and

ÞĮ

ligi

you let hor

put

⁽r) St. Matth. vii. 3.

about Things he did not understand, and seigned Things out of his own Heard, to comply with the Humour of his seduced Disciples and sollowers, in reproaching the Doctrine of CHRIST when he did not understand it, he discovered a most wicked and malignant Temper, and shewed himself far worse than the most simple and unlearned, who are not wont rashly to determine in Things not known to them. Or if he did understand the Beauty and Excellency of it. He shewed himself much more base and disingenuous in charging upon it what he knew to be salse.

SIR,

ary

to end

em,

ar.

loy

o in urt, 1 he ea-

rc'd nts)

the

in ot in

an

you

all.

ol-

hold out

tate

to

y if em-

on

to

and tra-

ous;

lked

bout.

In

THAVE now done with what I proposed, I have taken Notice of the Injustice of your Charge in the Orthodox Liturgy by which we worship GOD; I think I have treated you all along with good Manners: But if you think fit to make any Reply, I am ready to defend what I have here afferted. I would have you duly to confider what Injury you have done to Truth, to the REFOR-MATION, and to the Character of a Minister which you unjustly pretend to, and instead of sitting any longer in the Seat of the Scorner, I would have you to stand on the Stool of Repentance, and a knowledge how far the Violence of a Warty Splitt transported you, beyond either Reason or Religion; and I dave promise in the Name of those you wronged, you will find ready Forgiveness; but let me advise you for the future to follow the Exhortation of the Apostle, Eph. iv. 25. Wherefore putting away Lying, speak every Man Truth with his Neighbour.

I am,

Sir,

Some farther

CONSIDERATIONS

CONCERNING

Set Forms of Prayer, Episcopacy, Schism, &c.

9 110

HE foregoing Letter, in Substance the same that was sent, and carefully delivered into the Hands of M. M——April 16. 1715, had no other Effect (however well designed) than to provoke him to breath out Threatnings against the Author, and persist in his Calumnies against the Liturgy, not only from House to House, amongst such as have Zeal without Knowledge, but even from the Pulpit, which he continues to make the Seat of the Scorner, the common Shop of Heterodoxy and Slander, joyning with the Accuser of the Brethren, to misrepresent the Principles, and desame the Persons of all such as are not of his Way.

I was at first willing to believe that all his Virulence and Invective, proceeded from his Unacquaintedness with our Excelent Liturgy, and that

ne

th

un fu

an w

ed

Tw

ing ing ler

fat

co

na

ly

my

ing

by

to

I h

ter

gu bo

Pr

by

on

he was rather led through Ignorance than acted with Malice in those unwarrantable Sallies of his misguided Zeal, and therefore I was not without Hopes, that when I made a just Representation of the Things he had miltaken, and let before him the Opinion of the Reformers, (for whom we are united in Esteem) that if he would not ingenuously retract, yet in regard to Truth he would for the future forbear, any fuch Reflections as he must know, were unjust and false. His delaying to give me any Answer, or adduce any thing in Proof of what he faid, (to which I had invited him) helped to confirm me in this Expectation, till such time as I was informed from all Quarters of the Town, that he had resolved to confute me with Perfecution, and my Reasoning with Railing, and as a full Evidence of the Liturgy's being Popish, had pressed the Obligation of the 50= lemn League and Covenant, by which their Forefathers were sworn to extinpate POPERY, &c. in confequence of which they had overthrown Monarchy, Episcopacy and Liturgy, which mutually support one another, and the beautiful Fabrick of a well ordered Kingdom.

nce

ful-

no

ed)

a-

ies

to ow-

nti-

non

the

rin-

are

Vi-

ac-

hat

he

of

Being thus disappointed in my Hopes of him, my next Concern was for the simple well-meaning People, who are liable to be easily led away by the consident Assertions of those bold Pretenders to Truth and Demonstration; and for their Sakes I have extended the Subject of the foregoing Letter, and have endeavoured in very plain Language to set before them some Considerations about the Lawfulness and Expediency of Set Forms of Prayer, the English Liturgy, Episcopacy and Schism; by which I hope to make appear to the Conviction of all who shall read without Prejudice, and Eyass

Byafs to a Party, that the Caufe of the Dresbys terians against the Church is indefensible, their Opposition unjust and schismatical, their Ordination null and invitled, and consequently ineffectual for the Purposes of the Evangelical Ministry or Priesthood; and that it highly concerns every one that feeks for Salvation, to adhere firmly to the Orthodox Communion, and to maintain Catholick Unity against the destructive Principles of Schism, Sacrilege and Herely.

I shall therefore begin with Liturgies, and prove, that fince ever God had an Established Church in the World, there were Set Forms of Devotions or Liturgies, in the Jewish Church before and fince Christ, in the Christian Church of all Ages, and that at this very Day all those variety of Christians in the large Circuit of Christendom have their Set Forms of Prayer, which they do, and must use in the Worship of God.

Set Forms of Prayer were in use in the Jewish Church from their becoming a Church, after their coming out of Egypt 1500 Years before Christ. The first solemn piece of Worship we find recorded of them, is a Hymn of Praise composed on their Deliverance out of Egypt, which was fung by all the Congregation alternately, by Moses and the Men first, and next by Miriam and the Women, and it is impossible it could be fo fung, if it had not been a Set Form written down and read or gotten by Heart, by bo.h the Men and the Women.

God himself who best knows his own Nature, and whose it is to prescribe the manner of his own Worship, enjoyns a Form of Bleffing the People to be used by the Priests for ever. Numb. vi. 23, &c. Speak unto A ron and unto bis Sons, faith the the dre and and teni Bal fing pra

the the fait fcri 1

ign

tha peri ons Pric ftro Ble and priv 32.) Set . Ark Ana Mo Jeatt and man

Λ

mor

ipea

the Lord, saying, on this wife shall ye bless the Children of Israel, saying unto them, The Lord bless thee and keep thee, the Lord make his Face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee. The Lord lift up his Countenance upon thee and give thee Peace. And they shall put my Name upon the Children of Israel, and I will BLESS them.

If any shall object this was not praying, but bleffing, it is plain from the last Words, that it was praying to God for a Bleffing.

!-

il

r y

0

1-

of

d

d

of

e-

of ai-

h

he

h, rs

r-

of

of

on

by

ole

m

by

re,

115

0vi.

ith

he

Now if any are able to conceive a Prayer of themselves, we may well suppose it should be the Priest, whose Lips should preserve Knowledge, as faith the Propher, Malac. ii. 7. yet they are prescribed a Set Form of bleffing the People.

If it had been prescribed for the simple and ignorant Sort, it might here have been objected. that they that have not Gifts of their own, are permitted to make use of other Mens Compositions; but seeing it is prescribed to the High-Priest himself, nay, to Aaron the Eloquent, it strongly concludes for a Set Form of Prayer and Blessing, to be used in Publick by the most able and eloquent Divine.

Moses, a great Prophet, prayed so earnestly in private, that God said, Let me alone (Exod. iii. 32.) that my Wrath may wax hot, &c. yet used a Set Form in Publick, at the fetting forward of the Ark, and at its resting, Numb. x. 35, and 36. And it came to pass when the Ark set forward, that Moses said, Rise up, Lord, and let thine Enemies be scattered, and let them that hate thee flee before thee; and when it rested he said, Return, O Lord, unto the many Thousands of Israel. Let none pretend to be more able than he, whose Gifts were so unspeakaby great, that it is said, Josh. xxiv. 10. There

There arose not a Prophet since in Israel like unto Moses.

Holy David, a Man after GOD's own Heart, by the Inspiration of the holy Spirit, did indite and form many Psalms and Prayers for the use of the publick Congregation, as is to be seen by their Titles, as Psalm 102 is called A Prayer of the Assisted. The 92, A Psalm or Song for the Sabbath day. The 90, called, A Prayer of Moses the Man of God, used in their Service in the Wilderness, when they were destroyed for their Idolatry and Disobedience.

And such proper Forms of Devotion are the Psalms. That the Hymn which our Saviour sung after his last Supper, before he went into the Mount of Olives, is by the greatest Masters of Tradition, said to be that which the Jews used at the Feast of the Passover, and called by the Rabbins Hallel; that is, from the beginning of the 114th Psalm to the end of the 118th, containing five Psalms, and these material Points. (s)

1. Their coming out of Egypt. When Ifrael came out of Egypt, &c. Ver. 1.

2. The dividing of the Red-Sea. The Sea saw that and fled, &c. Ver. 3.

3. The giving of the Law. The Mountains skipped like Rams, &c. Ver. 4.

4. The Resurrection of the Dead. I will walk before the Lord in the Land, &c. Pfal. cxvi. 9.

5. The Sufferings and Glories of the Messias. The Stone which the Builders refused, Psal. cxviii. 22. Psalm 88 is called a Psalm for the Sons of Ko-

r

E

tl

E

20 th

I

fte

th

P

vi

ca

Pe

ge

an

he

12 fai

an

all

de

tar

the

Lei

the

Pe

pro

Ac the vic

At

15

⁽s) F. Luc. Burgens. in locum. Lightfoot, Vol. II.

to

t, tę

ot

eir

lf-

th

an

is,

nd

he

ing

he

ot

fed

the

of

in-ael

law

uns

alk

ias.

22.

Ko-

II.

rab

rab to the chief Musician, made by Eman the Ezrahite, who was David's Seer or Prophet, as we read, I Chron. xx. v. 25. A Man fo wife, that when the Wisdom of Solomon is commended it's said. 1 King iv. 31. That he was wifer than Ethan the Ezrahite, Oc. The 89 Pfalm is by Ethan the Ezrahite, who is faid, I Chron. xv. 19. to be one of the Singers of the Sanctuary or Tabernacle. I Chron. xxix. When good King Hezekiah restored Religion, and made a solemn Offering to the Lord, he commanded the Levites to fing Praises unto the Lord with the Words of David and of Asaph the Seer, Ver. 30, which is called Ver. 27. The Song of the Lord. Hofea xiv. 2. The Lord by this Prophet prescribeth to the People a Form of Prayer to deprecate his Vengeance which was ready to be poured on them; and, upon their Application to him in these Words he promiseth to hear and deliver them. OIfrael, return unto the Lord thy God, for thou haft fallen by thine Iniquity. Take with you Words, and return to the Lord. Say unto him, Take away all Iniquity, and receive us graciously, so will we render the Calves of our Lips, &c.

The Prophet Joel giveth us a Set Form of Litany and Deprecation, Chap. ii. Ver. 12. Thus saith the Lord, turn ye unto me with all your Hearts, &c. v. 17. Let the Priests, the Ministers of the Lord, weep between the Porch and the Altar, and let them say, Spare thy People, O Lord, and give not thine Heritage to Reproach, &c. The Liturgy of the Jews, with some Additions and Alterations made by Esdras after the Babylonish Captivity continued 'till our Saviour's Time, and His and the Disciples constant Attendance on these stated Devotions of the Jews is a sufficient Approbation of them by him

As is excellently well observed by that Noble and Learned French Protestant, L. du Plis : (t) " That " the Apostles were notsent to destroy the pure Worship of GOD that was in the Synagogue of the Jews, which they therefore retained " (after CHRIST's Example) in fo far, as it was confistent with the Gospel Dispensation; " and therefore tho' they changed the Sacrifices " and Sabbath, CHRIST being the Substance " adumbrated by the one, and the LORD's " Day to take Place of the other, yet the Ser-" vice it felf in other Particulars they did con-" tinue, and by this means some Harmony has " been observed betwixt the Jewish and Christian " Services. Another learned Protestant, P. Fagius, treating of the Jewish Form observes: " That the " first Part of their Service was a Confession of " the Sins of the People; after that some " Psalms of David were sung; as also some others " of Esdras; after that they had their Lessons " out of Law, for that End divided into 54 " Sections; next Lessons out of the Prophets, " divided into the like Number of Dimissi-" ones, that there might be a Part of both " read every Sabbath, and all once a Year "Then a general Prayer for the Necessities " both of Church and State, publick and private; " and in that many Particulars; and after all " the Archifynagogus bleffed the People and dif-" missed them". This learned Author makes it appear, that the Jews had always a constant fettled Liturgy; and we see by the Account he

*

..

"

cc

Sa

in

⁽t) De Missa, 1. 1.1. 3.

gives of it, that in some Things it agrees with the Christian Liturgies.

d

t

es

3

r-

n-

as 218

t-

he

of

ne

ers

ns

54 tsi

12-th

ar

ies

ite;

all

if-

it

int

he

ves

Studying Brevity, I shall pass by the many other Authorities that might be brought for establishing what I have advanced, and shall restrict my self to what a learned Member of the Presbyterian Communion, the great Antiquary Mr. Selden, in his Notes on Eutychius from the ancient Records of the Jewish Nation, says: " That " certain Forms of praying which were to be " used by every one daily by Law or received " Custom were instituted by Esdras and his " Consistory; that the Jews about the End of " the Captivity had their ancient Manners, as " well as Laws, so depraved, that without a " Master they were neither able to pray as they " ought, nor had Confidence so to do. There-" fore for the future, that they might not re-" cede in the Matter of their Prayers, through " Corruption of their Expression, or through " Ignorance, from that Form of Piety command-" ed them by GOD, this Remedy was ap-" ply'd by the Men of the great Synagogue. " Esdras and his hundred and twenty Collegues, "That of this Kind there were eighteen Prayers " or Benedictions, called, composed, or appointed " Prayers; the three first of these and the three " laft respected the Glory of GOD; the " twelve intermediate, respected these principal "Things that were necessary either for the " whole People, or every particular Man. And the learned Dr. Hammond observes, that our Saviour did so design his Prayer, as set down in St. Matth. vi. "That the three sirst Branches, and the Conclusion, which may pass for other three, refer to the Glory of GOD, and the

" othe

" other intermediate, to our publick and private

"Wants.
Mr. Selden farther takes Notice, "That "these Prayers were to be learned by every "Man. That the Prayers of the unskilful might be "as perfect as those of the most Eloquent. That "every Act of Prayer was begun with the Psal.
"xxxi and vi. That of those eighteen Prayers, no one was to be omitted. That if any other were added, they were counted of like free "Will-Offerings, as the other were answerable "for the prescribed. That the Additions might be made only in those Prayers which con" cerned our Wants, because those were capable of Variations, but not those that concernded GOD. That on the Sabbath and FeastDays none might use a voluntary Prayer.

W

T(

ft

ei

re

U

H

th

So

A

to

an bo

hi

to i

qui qui

wr

tiv

He farther in the forecited Book endeavours to make it appear, " That our Saviour in compo-" fing his own Prayer, had a special Reference " to those folemn Forms then in Use amongst " the Jews; and with them (to make good " what he fays) Part by Part compares the " LORD's Prayer. I have been the fuller with this Antiquary's Authority because of the great Respect was paid to him by the Presbyterians of Britain, when he was managing at the Head of their Cause in the House of Commons, and shall add no farther Teltimonies to prove what was intended, as to the Jewish Church, viz. That GOD did no sooner settle an established Church amongst them, than he prescribed them a stared Form of Worship, and that, in all the different Periods, even from Mofes to our Saviour's Time. Mr. Selden gives the Reason, and that a very Substantial one too: That the Prayers of the Unskilful tc

at ry be

at

al.

rs,

ner

ree

ole

ht

on-

Da-

rn-

ıst-

to

00-

nce

git

od

he

ith

eat

of

ot

iall

vas

hat

rch

red

ent

ne.

ery

Un-

lful

skilful might be as perfect, as the Prayers of the most Learned. Many more Arguments might be brought from the Old Testament, and the constant Practice of the Jewish Church; but our Adversaries chiefly urge, that now under the Evangelical Dispensation, that there is a more plentiful Manifestation of the Spirit, praying by Set Forms is unlawful.

Now that Set Forms have Warrant and Authority from the New Testament, as well as the Old, will appear from the following Arguments, the Precept and Example of our LORD, the Practice of the Apostles, and the Benefits that attend a Worship performed in Decency and Order.

When our blessed LORD's Disciples came to him with useful and proper Enquiries, he always plainly refolved them, so as to leave no room for any Difficulty or Doubt. If the Que-Itions were more for Curiofity than Edification, he either checked their Importunity, or left them unresolved. Thus when they ask, Acts 1.6. Lord, Wilt thou at this Time restore the Kingdom to Ilrael? He answered, It is not for you to know the Times or the Seasons, which the Father hath put in his own Power. So likewise, St. Luke xiii. 23. one said unto him, Are there few that be faved? And he he laid unto them, Strive to enter in at the strait Gate, &c. and St. John xxi. 22. when St. Peter asked him about the Fate of the beloved Disciple, he checks If I will that he tarry 'till I come, what is that to thee ? Follow thou me.

All his Answers to curious or impertinent Enquiries are so many Repreofs; but when they enquire about Things useful and necessary, he writes his Mind with a Sun-Beam plain, positive, and intelligible. Thus St. Matth. xix. 17.

when

when one came unto him to be directed in the way to eternal Happiness, he readily instructs him: If thou wilt enter into Life keep the Commands.

· According to the Importance of the Questions, fo are his Answers; from whence we may believe, and conclude, that the Request the Apostles made to be instructed in a Form of Prayer was very acceptable, and the Form our LORD prescribed was most perfect. And it's worth our Consideration, that when the Disciples came for an Increase of their Faith, St. Luke xvii. 5. He gave them no Form of their Faith, but left that to be given to his Church thro' the Holy Ghost, to be afterwards poured out upon them; but that all the Christian World might put up their Desires in the same Words, and speak the fame Language, he frameth that Form and compleat Prayer, which we call The LORD's Prayer. He who is the Word of the Father, who, as GOD, knew best what Petitions would be pleasing to GOD, and as he was Man knew what Petitions were not fuitable for Men, prescribed this incomparable Form, that we might have Hopes to obtain our Requests, and be accepted with our Heavenly Father. St. Matth. vi. 9. After this manner pray ye: St. Luke xi. 2. When ye pray, Say, OUR FATHER. A Prayer which is a most compleat Form of it self, and also a most exact Rule and Pattern, according to which all other Prayers should be made.

This has been used in all Ages of the Church, not only as a common Part of her Prayers and Service, but as the chief and fundamental; the Ground whereupon she builds, the Pattern whereby she frames and perfects all the rest of her heavenly Devotions, as may be seen by the Li-

surgies

nurg

fho

fpe:

plea

tho

can

a P

our

it's fay

mo poi

Na

wat

by

to I

Wo

Fati

neve

44.

Wo

I co

Gh

tion

CH

whi

Ent

be ti

Pfal

ples

For

I

S

6

surgies of all Christian Nations. And the Men should be endued with the Understanding, and speak with the Tongue of Angels, yet, Words so pleasing and acceptable to the Ears of GOD, as those which the SON of GOD did compose, cannot possibly be uttered.

Obj. If it should be objected that it is rather a Pattern, according to which we are to form our Prayers, than a Prayer, because by St. Matth.

it's said, After this Manner pray ye.

Answ. 1. It's by St. Luke said, When ye pray,

Say - Our Father, &c.

20

ts

ls.

IS,

CT

4-

er

D

ur

ne 5.

eft

oly

1;

up

he n-

3.5

er,

ld

eht

C-

1h. 2.

er

lo

h,

nd

he

e-

i-

ies

2. As some Weights and Measures which are most exact in their Kind, being made or appointed for Standards, do not therefore lose the Nature of Weights, or Measures, but are rather warranted and valuable; so the LORD's Prayer by being made a Pattern, is thereby commended to us to be the most absolute Form of Prayer in the World.

St. Matth. xxvi. 39. Our Saviour prayed, O my Father, if it be possible, let this Cup pass from me, nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt; and Ver. 44. he prayed the third Time, saying the same Words. St. Luke xxiii. 46. Father, into thy Hands I commend my Spirit, the Words of the Holy Ghost, Psal. xxxi. Ver. 5. and with little Variation used by St. Stephen in giving up his Soul to CHRIST. Acts vii. 59. The Blessing with which our Saviour was saluted in his publick Entry to Jerusalem. St. Matth. xxi. 9. Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord, is taken from Psal. cxviii. 26.

It's certain from the Question of the Disciples, that St. John Baptist had prescribed a Form to his Disciples. St. Luke xi. 1. Lord, teach and the other inspired Apostles use the same Form of Salutation and Benediction in most of their Epistles. In the beginning, Grace, Mercy, and Peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ. The Prayer at the End. The Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the Love of God, and the Fellowship of the Holy Ghost be with you all. Amen. St. John represents the glorified Saints in Heaven singing the Song of Moses, the Servant of God, and the Song of the Lamb. Rev. xv. 3. The Song of Triumph, when the Israelites were saved from the Hand of the Egyptians, who were swallowed up in the red Sea. Exod. xv. 1.

These few Instances may be sufficient to prove that Set Forms are warranted by the Word of GOD, and were practised both by the Jewish and Christian Churches.

I shall therefore answer the Objections of our Adversaries, and shew the Inconvenience of the contrary Practice.

Obj. Their first grand Objection is, that praying by a Form is a stinting of the Spirit.

Answ. If praying by a Form is stinting the Spirit, then CHRIST stinted the Spirit by prescribing the LORD's Prayer, which I have proved was appointed to be used as a Form; but to fay this would be abfurd.

2. If he that prays the common and known Prayer out of a Book stints the Spirit, then he that prays Extempore stints the Spirit of all that joyn with him; for they are limited to his Words and Sense, and so his Prayer is a Form to them. For if their Minds go along with him, they pray the same Prayers that he doth, and neither more nor less. Now why should the People

Per and lick the Wa of is a it, Pull ten and in S tha rit, fail who is H whee C pray flam not the

fpe

fing ding for Seninde Pra gre:

People be tied to the Prayers of the Minister, and not rather to the Prayers of the Church, publick and known, composed by the Assistance of the Spirit of GOD, and so better suited to the Wants of a People than the extempore Essuitance of any can pretend to be? The extempore Prayer is a Form to every one but the Person that speaks it, and is as much stinting the Spirit, as the Publick Common Prayer is, unless they will pretend to know before-hand what he is to say.

3. The Phrase of Stinting the Spirit is new and unheard of, and seems devised only for this Purpose, to perplex the Minds of the Ignorant and Doubtful. That which comes nearest to it in Sound or Signification is 1 Thes. v. 19. Quench not the Spirit. Which is not to be restrained to the particular Duty of Prayer, as if in that respect only the Spirit could be quenched, but that (as all the Good we do, is by the Holy Spirit, who, worketh in us both to will and to do, we fail not to lay hold on all Opportunities to do what we are taught is our Duty. A like place is Eph. iv. 30. Grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the Day of Redemption.

Obj. A second Objection. 1 Cor. xiv. 15. I will pray with the Spirit, and I will pray with the Understanding also.

aul,

ame

t of

ercy,

te sus

ce of

and

men.

Tea-

God,

g of

the .

d up

t to

the

by

our

ray-

the

by

nave

but

own

n he

that

his

n to him,

and

ople

of

Answer. It follows in the same Verse, I will fing with the Spirit, I will fing with the Understanding also. So that this Text makes no more for extempore Prayers then extempore Psalms in the Sense that our Adversaries contend for; and it is indeed very strange that they should take it for Prayers, and not allow its Obligation to be as great with respect to Psalms.

If Set Forms are not praying with the Spirit, neither are David's Pfalms, many of which are less applicable to the Christian Worship than the approved Liturgy we use. So that finging and praying with the Spirit, must signify the Intention, Fervour, and Devotion of the Spirit, in Prayer and Praises, that the Heart and Assections accompany our Words and Expressions, which is the Life and Soul of the Sacrifice.

2. When the Apostles desired Christ to teach them to pray, he did not teach them to pray by the Spirit in their Sense, who think speaking extempore without Pre-meditation whatever comes into their Mind, only praying by the Spirit; but he prescribes them a Set Form, and having also instructed us that God is a Spirit, and that such as worship him must worship him in Spirit and in Truth; we are affured that praying by a Form is not contrary to the Nature of a spiritual Worship, but that those who pray with hearty Affection and Zeal, pray by the Spirit in the Use of a Set Form of Words. When ye pray, Jay, OUR FATHER, fo that the Set Form may be certainly prayed by the Spirit, else it had never been commanded to be used by our Saviour CHRIST.

To pray by the Spirit signifies these two things.

1. The Inspiration of Words and Matter, 2 Pct. i. 21. The Prophecy came not of Old time by the Will of Man: but holy Men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost. In. this Sense no doubt many did pray and sing in the publick Assembly during the continuance of the Gifts of Tongues and Miracles. Tertul.

2. Praying

V

u.

in

b tl

in

h

P

0

to

A

pl h bl

G

p

A

n

ſŧ

2. Praying by the Spirit signifies to pray by the Direction and Affistance of the Spirit. Jude 20. But ye, beloved, building up your selves on your most holy Faith, praying in the Holy Ghost. Rom. viii. 26. Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our Infirmities: for we know not what we should pray for as we ought: but the Spirit it self maketh Intercession for us with Groanings which cannot be uttered. Eph. vi. 18. Praying always with all Prayer and Supplication in the Spirit, and watching, &c. So that praying by the Spirit is with the Affistance of the Spirit, the inward Motions and Impulses thereof, carrying forth our Affections with Zeal and Fervency, farther than Nature enables them; and so the holy Spirit may be faid to be the Author of our Prayers, because, he it is that cleanses the Thoughts of the Heart, raises the Affections of the Soul, and fanctifieth Soul and Body, to be a living Sacrifice acceptable to God.

The Apossle witnesses that every adopted Child of GOD hath the Promise of these Assistances of the Holy Ghost, that when he applies his Heart to seek the Lord and call upon his Name, the holy Spirit by his Grace enables him to make powerful Supplications with Sighs and Groans which cannot be uttered. Gal. iv. 6. And because ye are Sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your Hearts, crying

Abba, Father:

pirit,

are

n the

and enti-

, in lecti-

lions,

each

ay by

g ex-

omes

irit;

aving

that

t and

Form

ritual

bearty

Ufe

OUR

y be never viour

two attet,

me by

ike as

Senfe

blick

Gifts

aying

The Spirit of Prayer consists in a fervent Application of the Mind to the thing desired, and to God of whom we desire to obtain it. And God will as soon hear us when we draw near to him with Words of a publick Composure, as our own, if our Heart be equally present. Every good Christian is not able to conceive a

H

Praver

Prayer of his own, who yet can pray fervently and heartily by a Form.

And as for the publick Prayers in a Congregation, it's certainly much more reasonable that the Minister should be regulated by the Church, that I Cor. iv. 32. The Spirit of the Prophets should be subject to the Prophets, than that the whole Congregation should be stinted by his private Spirit. In this great Affair the publick Worship, the Command of the Apostle should take place. 1 Cor. xiv. 26. Let all things be done to edifying. And certainly when a Congregation is well instructed in a well composed Liturgy, a Form of sound Words fuited to the several Parts of Christian Worlhip, they come before-hand prepared to joyn with their Tongues and Hearts, and such Service is more properly their Common Supplications, and the Prayers of every particular Person who joyns in them than the extempore Prayers of the Minister, of which they know nothing till they hear them pronounced; for if they heard them from him before, they become a Form, and then the Question will not be if Set Forms are lawful, but which is the best Form? that of the Church, or this private Person.

To worship God in a Form of Prayer, is to agree before-hand what things are to be sought of GOD, and in what manner we are to seek them, and if two or three have a Promise of being heard, how much more when the whole Church agrees in the same things? S. Matth. xviii. 19. Again, I say unto you, that if two of you shall agree on Earth, as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father. For where two or three are gathered, &c.

Such

C

A

th

M

V1

the

rea

the

thy upo

tem

Pre

ny

him

of .

Min

his

to 1

the

the calle

trad

petit

unco

Form

Form

fore

have men,

2.

I

tly

ga-

hat

ch,

hets

hole

rit.

the ace.

ing.

in-

nund

tian

to uch

lica-

rion

rs ot

till

eard

orm,

orms

the

o a-

ight

feek

being irch

19.

agre:

ask,

ohere

aich

Such a Service must be reasonable, holy, and acceptable, when the Church with whom Christ has promised that he will be present to the end of the World. S. Matth. xxviii. 20. provides (by the Assistance of his blessed Spirit) sound Words, in the use of which, the Heart is instanced, and the Mind instructed. Such as the wise Preacher advises us to, Eccles. v. 1, 2. Keep thy Foot when thou goest into the House of the Lord, and be more ready to hear than to give the Sacrifice of Fools, for they know not that they do Evil. Be not rash with thy Mouth and let not thine Heart be hasty to utter any thing before God, for God is in Heaven, and thou upon Earth, therefore let thy Words be few.

Experience shews us, that they who use extempore Prayers transgress this Rule; and all the Pretences they make to the Spirit, are but so many Reproaches and Blasphemies, if they make him the Author of such incoherent Rhapsodies of Nonsense as they frequently vent. For,

I. It is not to be supposed the Minister's Mind can be devoutly fixed on GOD, whilst his Imagination is racked in inventing what next to say; and to supply the descet of new Matter, the same thing is often sought in different Words; the tremendous Name of GOD is frequently called on, to make up the Sentence, and protract the Prayer; many Tautologies, frequent Repetitions, frothy and dry Expressions, new and uncouth Phrases, &c. are made use of.

2. The extempore Prayer, such as it is, is a Form to the People as I have before observed, a Form they know not till they hear it, and therefore not their Prayers but the Ministers; they have not so much as the Privilege of saying Amen, they have not the Exercise of Tongues or

H-2

Voice, or any part in it, but that they heard it, but if the Minister's Voice was low, or they at a Distance, and a Word was lost, all they can do is to give an implicite Assent to it; they pray, as he prayed; or they meant to pray, as he should pray.

From this it follows, that the crude, raw, undigested Notions of young, ignorant, or wicked Persons, being put in Place of Prayer, the Peevishness and Passions of Men being vented, amongst many of them, wise Men are tempted to abhor the Sacrifice; the Wicked are encouraged to Scots and Blaspheme, and the Sober and Well-disposed are disappointed of the Comfort that attends drawing near to the LORD with a Devotion suitable to his Majesty, and the Condition of Mankind.

Obj. But they object to us, that a School-boy, or any Person that can read well is able to read the Liturgy, and that this way of praying encourages Ministers to be lazy.

Answer. There are many other things for a Minister to do (if he will discharge his Duty with a good Conscience) besides Studying to Pray. For,

1. If he attains it by Study or Art, it is not praying by the Spirit, as the People are made to believe it is.

2. That any Person that can read well may be a Minister, does no more follow, than that every Person that can pray extempore, (in which many amongst them are ready enough) is sit to minister amongst them. A Butcher might have killed a Lamb or a Sheep under the Law, as well as the Priest, and this was no Disparagement to a Priest then, no more is it now, that another

a

n

2

re

N

fc

fl T

E

tl

S

ti

ai

fu

V

W

to

fti

þγ

Si

ye

A

 \boldsymbol{B}

S

at

d it,

they

they

, un-

icked

the

nted, pted

oura-

and nfort R D

the boy,

read

cou-

for a

Duty

g to not le to

y be at ehich

fit to have

well

it to

can

present time.

can read as well as they; it being the Designation and regular Ordination and Appointment to that Office that makes a Priest, and not Abilities alone: For Heb. v. 4. No man taketh this Honour to himself, but he that is called of God as was Aaron; and according to this divine Law, no Person amongst the Dissenters, so much as pretending to an extraordinary Call, and wanting the ordinary regular Succession of Episcopal Ordination to the Ministerial Office, no Sacerdotal Authority is sound amongst them, which makes their Worship not only impersect and unsuitable to the Dignity of the Christian Religion, but Sinful and Schismatical, as I shall prove hereafter.

Having now established the Lawfulness and Expediency of Set Forms from the Practice of the Jewish and Christian Churches, from the holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament, the Practice of holy Men before Christ, from the Precept and Example of our Blessed Lord, and answered such Objections as are usually brought by the Adversaries of Order and the Form of Sound Words we are commanded to keep to; I shall proceed to shew the uncontested Practice of the Christian Church from the Days of our Saviour to this

That the Christian Church, generally in all Ages and Places hath made use of Publick and Set Forms of Prayers, appears by the Liturgies yet extant; whereof some bear the Names of the Apostles, as of St. James and St. Peter; some of the Greek Fathers, as St. Chrysostom and St. Basil; some of the Latin Fathers, as St. Ambrose, St. Gregory, and St. Isidore, as we may see from Egesippus, Justin Martyr, Tertullian, the Laodicean and Milevitan Councils, &c. The Apostle St. James, from his Liturgy for the first Christians at Jerusalem, was called Liturgical; the Latin Church takes her Liturgy from St. Peter, the same with that of St. Clement, which he hath in the Apostolical Constitutions. St. Dionys. declares the Parts, Rites, and Ceremonies of the Liturgies in those times. St. Justin Martyr, St. Cyprian, St. Epiphanius, St. Cyril of Jerusalem, and others of those primitive Times do mention the most principal Parts of this Liturgy, and the Liturgies of St. Ambrose and St. Gregory are grounded on it.

Ch

cer

by

thr

570

 H_{y}

onl

opp

Cha

it v

Ch

and

ftor

tha

" a

" F

cc v

" t

cc t

the

(b)' ic i

" c

" n

Don Don

In the Greek Church the Liturgies of St. Bafil and St. Chryfostom are now in use. Proclus Bishop of Constantinople, An. 430. in his Book de traditione divina Liturgia, affirms that many immediate Successors of the Apostles did explain the Mysteries of the Liturgy; amongst others he names St. Clement, and tells us that St. Bafil the Great, about the Year 370 compiled his Liturgy, and about 30 Years after St. Chryfostom published his. He treats largely of both, affirming also, that as St. Basil did rather contract the precedent Liturgies, so St. Chrysostom did contract or abbreviate St. Basil's for the Ease of the People, and that both did take their Platform from what they had received from the Apofles and their Successors. And the faid Proclus, who lived but 30 Years after St. Chryfostom, expounds every Part of them, and shews that they were not newly invented, but that whatever was found in the Substance, Rites, Ceremonies, or Parts of them, was also to be found in the other Writings of the same Holy Fathers. like has been done by Michael Syngellus, J. Damascenus, Marcus Ephesinus, S. Germanus Bishop of stantinople, Nichol. Cabasilas, Maximus, Cardinal

Bessarion, &c.

la-

ch

ith

00-

the

in

St.

of

in-

of

it.

afil

op

ıdi-

ne-

the

he

the

ur-

ub-

ing

the

on-

of

lat-

Apo-

lus,

ex-

hey

was or o-

Da-

of of

con-

The Liturgy of St. Mark is made use of in the Church of Alexandria to this very time, on some certain Days. The Liturgy of St. James is eited by the General Council in Trullo, wevbenth, to confute that Error of the Armenians (who through a Mistake of some Words of St. Chrysostom, wherein he condemns the Heresy of the Hydroparastata who administred the Eucharist only in Water) were accustomed to hold the opposite Extreme, and administer an unmingled Chalice only Wine. The Council declares, that it was the Custom of Holy Chrysostom in his own Church, to celebrate in the mixt Cup of Wine and Water, according to the confentient Cufrom of the whole Catholick Church, and favs, " James, the Brother of our Lord Christ, " according to the Flesh, to whom the Episcopal Throne of the Church of Jerusalem was committed, and Bafil, the Bishop of Casaria, " who was famous all over the World, had in " their several Liturgies taught and prescribed " that Wine and Water were to be mixed in the Sa-" cred Cup for the Eucharistick Sacrifice. (a) That the Council of Carthage had decreed the fame thing. (b) Then the Council proceeds to Enact, (c) "That if any Bishop or Priest does not administer accordding to the Apostles Appointment, and does not mix Water with the Wine when he offers the immaculate Sacrifice, he should be deposed,

⁽a) Vid. Concil. Labb. & Cossart. Tom. 6. p. 1156, 1157. (b) Concil. Carthag. 111. Can. 24. An. Dom. 397. (c) Ibid. Tom. 2. p. 1169.

as one that makes an imperfect Representation of the Mystery, and innovates upon what was delivered.

St. Cyril, (a) Bishop of Jerusalem, Ann. 350. who had been at the First General Council of Nice, gives us an Abstract of the Liturgy then in use, which was that of St. James before cited. " Therefore do we recite this Seraphick The-" ology delivered to us, that in that cælestial " Hymnody we may communicate with the " Heavenly Host, and thus by fuch kind of " Hymns sanctifying our selves, we pray the " most benign God, that he will fend out his " Holy Spirit upon the proposited Elements, " that it may make the Bread the Body of Christ, " and the Wine the Blood of Christ. For certain-" ly, whatever the Holy Spirit doth touch, it " is fanctified and changed. Then after that " spiritual Sacrifice, that unbloody Worship is " done (that is, after Consecration and Oblation, " in Commemoration of the Passion of Christ) over " that very Host of Propitiation do we obsecrate " God for the common Peace of the Churches; " for the Tranquillity of the World, for Kings, " for their Armies and Confederates, for the " Sick and Afflicted, and in fine for all who " need help. We commemorate also those who have fallen asleep before us. First the Patri-" archs, Prophets, Apostles, Martyrs, that " God at their Prayers and Deprecations would ac-" cept ours. Then we pray for the Holy Fa-"thers and Bishops deceased; and lastly for all " who are deceased amongst us, believing it to

CC

C

th

C

lo

ne

fa

u

0

*

..

46

**

..

ic

ć'c

" be a very great Help to the Souls, for whom the Obsecration of that tremendous Sacrifice,

" which is placed on the Altar, is offered.

enta-

upon

350.

cil of

en in

The-

estial

1 the

d of

t his nents, Christ,

rtainch, it

that

lation,

over

crate

ches;

ings,

r the

who

who

atri-

that ld ac-

y Fa-

or all

it to

be

I have been the longer in this Quotation, because it so fully represents the Liturgy of the Antients at that time; agreeable to which the *Li*turgies of this present time ought to be examined and reformed.

St. Jerom speaking of the Amen of the antient Christians, says that it was so unanimous and loud that it represented Thunder (ad similitudinem Calestis tonitrui AME N reboat.) Ausonius says, they did the same in King David's Psalms.

Consona quem celebrant modulati carmina David, Et responsuris fecit Aera vocibus Amen.

The celebrated Historian Socrates (a) gives us a very remarkable Account of the Institution of finging Psalms or Hymns alternately in the Church. "That Ignatius the third Bishop of Antioch " after St. Peter (by whose Hands he was made " a Bishop) saw a Vision of Angels alternately " finging Pfalms and Hymns of Praise to the "Glory of the facred Trinity, and therefore " did prescribe to his Church of Antioch this " Form and Manner of praising God, which " he had thus feen in the Vision; from whence " the same Custom came to be received in all o-"ther Churches. This Holy and Apostolical " Bishop suffered Martyrdom at Rome in the " third Persecution under Trajan, A. 107. be-" ing torn by wild Beafts in the Amphitheater.

⁽a) Hist. Eccl. 11b. 6. cap. 8.

"He was stiled Theophorus, and calls himself so in his Epistles, as is supposed, because he was that little Child mentioned in the Gospel, which Christ took up in his Arms, when he would teach his Disciples Humility, by the low Character of Childhood. He was familiarly conversant with the Apostles, and nourished arly conversant with them; and by (a) Origen, (b) Iraneus, (c) St Chrysostom, (d) Theodoret, and all the Fathers esteemed as a most Divine and Apostolical Person, of extraordinarry Zeal, vast Charity, and most clear Apprehension of divine Things, Devout and Religious even to a Miracle.

I thought it proper to give my Reader this Account of holy Ignatius, that as his Authority has been ever of great Weight in the Christian Church, next to the Canonical Scriptures, so it may have a proportionable Influence and Regard in this Controversy, and that of Episcopacy, where I shall have occasion to use it.

St. Hippolitus, Bishop and Martyr, who suffered A. 230. in his Book concerning Antichrist, makes the Abolition of Liturgies a Mark of Antichrist, and consequent of his Coming; for he says, "Then Churches shall be made like Sta-"bles; the precious Body and Blood of Christ shall not be had; Liturgies shall be extinguished; the singing of Psalms shall cease; the reading of the Scripture shall not be heard, "To.

Ac

 M_1

Pa

tol

Ch Dr

ric

Cur

in i

Ma

tim

Dif

ner

at (

Ron

fays

Itle

was

St.

ever

Ecci

pro

this app I ut

all .

&c.

Tha

⁽a) Hom. 6. in Luc. (b) Lib. 5. adv. Hæref. c. 28. (c) In Ignat. encom. Tom. 5. Edit. Savil. p. 499. (d) Dialog. 1.

St. Cyprian, the famous Bishop of Carthage, who suffered Martyrdom, A. D. 260. De Orat. Dom. Ser. 8. says, "We have a common and " publick Prayer for all the People.

fo

725 el,

he

he li-

fh-

ri-

eo-

oft

na-

en-

e-

his

ity

an

it

rd cy,

er-

ift,

ln-

he

2-ift

h-

he

d, eſ.

il.

it.

Cardinal Bona, and Cassander, give us a large Account of Liturgies, of the Ambrofian used at Milan, the Mozarabick used in Spain, and that Part of France called Gallia Narbonensis. I am told the Mozarabick is used in some particular Churches in the City of Toledo at this Day. Dr. Lloyd, late Bishop of Worcester, in his Historical Account of the Church Government of Britain, mentions their having the Liturgy called Cursus Gallorum of St. Martin Bishop of Tours in France, who died 401. That Ninian faw St. Martin in his Journey to Rome, and lived sometime with him; he afterwards introduced his Discipline into Scotland and England, where Venerable Bede tells us there was an old Church at Canterbury dedicated to St. Martin, whilst the Romans lived in Britain. Adamn in vita Columb. fays, he brought his Monastick Institution into the Itle of Hy, where in the Sunday Offices there was wont to be a Prayer in Commemoration of That this Gallorum Cursus was used every where in Britain. Vid. Uffer. de Primord. Eccl. Brit. p. 343.

I might adduce a great many Testimonies to prove the use of Liturgies in latter Ages, but this being acknowledged by our Adversaries, we shall now Sum up the Evidence, that it may appear whether I have sufficiently proved what I undertook, viz. That the Church of God in all Ages had Liturgies or Set Forms of Prayer, &c. which they made use of in their publick Worship. That the Jewish Church had such I have pro-

I 2 ve

66

66

 D_i

cc

too

no

Pr

fo

Di

T

exc

on

(3.

nec

Th

as

tha

tio

mi

tur

thi

nin

in

of

O

the per fon

fro

ved from the Old Testament, and from the New that the Church in our Saviour's time had fuch; and for the Ages immediately following, elteemed most pure, I have brought the Testimonies of most holy Bishops and Martyrs who lived in them: So that according to the famous Golden Rule of (a) Vincentius Lyrinenfis, being always, every where, and constantly used, they have all those Qualifications that are necessary to establish a Truth, and fuch as nothing but a Schismatical Opposition to Orthodoxy and good Order can contradict. Have we any better Authority ab extra for the Scriptures, to distinguish those that are Canonical from fuch as are not, but the Testimony of the Church? Was it not by the Evidence of the Fathers that our first Reformers placed fuch Books in the Class of Apocryphal, as had not the Qualification of others? St. Hierom fays, Hac funt qua Patres intra Canonem concluserunt, these are the Writings which the Fathers have concluded within the Canon: And Ruffinus, Hac nobis a patribus tradita, these are delivered to us by the Fathers. If the Testimony of the Fathers was of such Prevalence in fo great a Matter as to settle (primarily at least) the Canon of Scripture, upon which the Christian Religion so much dependeth, I think it ought to have the same Weight in the present Controversy and all others, where this Rule of Universality, Antiquity, and Consent can take place.

To the same purpose is the Rule given by (b) St. Augustin. "We are not to doubt, or ⁽a) Cont. Hæref. 1. 1. cap. 1. (b) Lib. 7. contra Donat. " call

Tew

ch;

mies

in

den

ve-

ose

h a

can

ab

ofe

the

the

ners

rom

use-

Fa-

Ind

nele

Te-

in

at

the k it

sent

e of

ake

by

or

nat.

"call in Question those things which the "whole Church thro'out the World doth use; for to dispute whether such things ought to be done, is most insolent Madness." And St. Damascen. "What Christian Religion void of Error doth admit, and firmly hold for so many Ages, by no means is to be esteemed vain, but profitable, pleasing to God, and very much conducing to our Salvation.

And thus I hope I have proved what I undertook, according to the foregoing Rules, and shall now draw these necessary Conclusions from the Premisses. (1.) That Set Forms of Prayer are so far from being unlawful, that they have both Divine and Apostolical Authority for them: (2.) That Set Forms of Prayer are no part of Popery, except Popery be a general Term for all Religion, Jewish and Christian, Natural and Revealed. (3.) That the Reasons which made them at first necessary, continue to be of equal Force now. Viz. That the Prayers of the Unskilful might be as perfect as those of the most Eloquent. I may add another, that those unguarded, nay even unchristian Petitions, too frequently used in publick Worship, might be prevented.

In the Account I have given of the English Liturgy in the foregoing Letter, I have not faid any thing of the First Liturgy composed in the beginning of King Edward the VIth's Reign, which in all its Parts is defensible against the Charge of Popery, as might be shew'd if there were Occasion. The Book being very scarce, and in the Hands only of a few, I have thought proper to take some Notice of it here, at least in some considerable Points, wherein it differs from the Second now used, and thereby it will appear, appear, how careful the Compilers of the Second were, to have it purged of every thing that could be complain'd of to look like Popery, expecting hereby to satisfy the most scrupulous tender Consciences; and in these Compliances it's probable they went too far from the Standard of Antiquity, and farther than the Practice of the Primitive Church would bear them out. However it may be said, if the Design was good, the Effect was not answerable.

In general, the Difference between King Edward's First Liturgy, and the present, consists in many Things very material, as mixing Water with the Eucharistick Wine; making the Sign of the Cross in the Consecration, with an Invocation of the Holy Ghost; to make the Bread and Wine the Body and Blood of Christ, in which the Essence of Consecration seems to consist. And therefore the Judicious Compilers of our Scots Liturgy, 1636. restored those Words, and some other Things in the Communion Office, which the present English Liturgy seems to want; as chiefly the making an Oblation of the Sacrifice after it is duly consecrated, and that before the Participation or Communion of the Faithful. The Words of Distribution-are Primitive, without the additional Form of Commemoration, which too much favours the Sacramentarian Doctrine. This is likewise restored in our Scots Liturgy. In the Office of Baptism, according to King Edward's First Liturgy, Exorcism is used, and the Infant is anointed after dipping thrice, and has the Chryfom or white Garment put upon it. The Bishop is to cross the confirmed Person in the Forehead. Bracelets and Jewe's are given in Matrimony, as Tokens of Espousage, and the married Persons bleifon, head the mend was fing Brea used, with 1 ny c the it n med ty; pern State Prace on c farth fo ea fymb their shoul the o they have in Re gion icenfi Obsti cred] works

Doct

makir

d

t

S

es

1-

1-

n

LS

l-

in

er

gn

0-

d

ne

d

its

ne

ch

as

ice

ne

ie

he

00

is

he

l's

nt

y-

qc

d.

as

ns

ed

bleffed with the Sign of the Cross. The fick Perfon, upon Desire, is to be anointed in the Forehead and Breast. The Priest to cast Earth upon the Corps in burying the Dead, and to recommend his Soul to God. The churched Woman was to offer up her Chrysom, and kneeling, crofsing, holding up of Hands, knocking upon the Breast, and other Postures, are permitted to be used, or lest, as every Man's Devotion serveth, without Blame.

Thus stood the First Liturgy, in these and many other Particulars, much more agreeable to the Primitive Standard than the present; and thus it might have continued, if the pragmatical meddling of Foreigners had not defac'd its Beauty; Foreigners! whose Influence has ever been pernicious to our Affairs both in Church and The Marks of Zuinglian and Calvinistick Practices yet remaining, too deeply impressed on our Solemn Offices, fave me the Trouble of farther Proofs in this Particular: Could we but so easily vindicate our Liturgy from too much lymbolizing with their own Novelties, as from their false and reproachful Charge of Popery, we should have less Occasion to make Appeals to. the one, or Apologies to the other. But when they have been gratify'd to the utmost, and have by Force and Fraud obtain'd more than in Reason they should have asked, or for Religion should have been given, when no Condescension can gain on their inveterate Habit of Obstinacy, what remains but to secure the Sacred Munition of Truth, by making the Outworks stronger, abandoning no more Catholick Doctrines to bribe their Compliance, no longer making a Complement of the Decisions of Councils, eils, and the consentient Practice of the Church, to gain an uncertain Peace at the Hazard or Expence of Truth, but following the Command of the GOD of Truth by his Prophet, Zech. viii.

16. These are the Things that ye shall do, speak ye every Man the Truth to his Neighbour, execute the Judgment of Truth and Peace in your Gates, and v. 19. Love the Truth and Peace. And it's the Saying of a Wise Man, Peace without Truth is but a Truce with Error.

That some Truths of very great Importance were facrificed, on the Review of the First Liturgy, to court, and gain, if possible, the most fcrupulous (fo he were fincere) is plain from the thort Comparison I have made above of the First and Second Liturgies; and tho our Adversaries cannot but know, that all these Things were given up to please them, to bring them into good Temper, and establish an Alliance for farther propagating the Work of Reformation, yet fince they are willing to forget the Obligation, and make the unthankful Return of Clamours of 100: perp still, it may not be amiss in this Place to flew them, that the Things laid afide were not trivial, and infignificant, Matters of Custom, or Ceremony, much less Corruption and Error, but that they were of a Sacred Nature, pertaining not only to the Decency, but Essence of Religion, and establish'd by the consentient Testimony of the Church in all Ages; many of them fuch as have Apostolical Tradition for their Practice, and are found as early in the Records of Antiquity, as any of those Things we esteem the Fundamental of our Faith; for as St. Augustin * excellently

ווטי

bee

Fai

Pro

lica

shall Ince

Dft

then

lud

ipec

they

geli

tiles,

Jaith Pow

Obla

flate

the .

by t flatio

rifh

struc

of th

2. T

Not:

Wor

with

Wor

Dead

^{*} Contra Donat. C. 24

defines, That which bath been believed by the whole visible Church of God, and whereof no first beginning can be known fince the Apostles, is presumed to have been first taught by Christ, and his Apostles.

And first, the Belief of a real and propitiatory Sacrifice in the Holy Eucharist, has been the Faith of the Church in all Ages, according to the Prophecy that went before of the Evangelical Church, Mal. i. 11. From the rifing of the Sun even unto the going down of the same, my Name shall be great among the Gentiles, and in every place Incense shall be offered unto my Name, and a putte Offering, for my Name shall be great among the Heathen, faith the Lord of Hofts. It's the concurrent Judgment of all the Fathers, that this Text respects the Sacrifice of the Altar, and accordingly they expound Isaiah lxvi. 21. where the Evangelical Prophet speaks of bringing in of the Gentiles, I will take of them for Priests, and for Levites, faith the Lord, to fignify a Priesthood endued with Power from the great High-Priest, to make an Oblation of this Sacrifice. Thus Evalmus tranflates Act. xiii. 2. hellspysvlwv, sacrificantibus, as the Apostles were facrificing to the Lord; and by the way we may take notice, that this Tranflation was appointed to be provided in all Parish Churches after the Reformation, for the instruction of the People, which is an Argument of the Reputation it then had amongst us. 2. That those who endeavour'd to destroy the Notion of a Sacrifice, did also lay aside the Word Priest, as relative to, and infignificant without it, and in place thereof substituted the Word Minister, which is the Latin and English of Deacon, the lowest Order of the Clergy amongst If K

efines

, to

Ex-

of

viii.

k ye

the.

and

the

th is ance

Li-

molt

the

First

aries

were good

rther

fince

and

F 100:

ce to e not n, or

, but

ining

ligion,

of the

have

d are

ity, as nentals

lently

If it should be here objected, That there is mention of a Sacrifice and Oblation in the Second Liturgy. First in the Prayer for Christ's Church, wherein we beseech God to accept our Alms and Dblations (if we have made any) and again, in the Post Communion, whe befeech thee to accept this our Sacrifice of Praile and Thanks= giving. It is plain that neither of these have respect to the proper Evangelical Sacrifice, which it's presum'd we design then to commemorate in Union with the whole Church of Christ: For these are not the New Sacrifice or Pure Offering prophecy'd of; these are such Sacrifices as Men have been taught both by natural and reveal'd Religion to offer; Tythes and Oblations were both before and under the Law, Jews and Heathens paid these Acknowledgments to the Almighty Sovereign of Heaven and Earth; and where Christianity is not yet known, such Donatives are made at this Day. The Lay Christian, in his Closet, is bound to make a daily Offering of himself to GOD's Service, and to consume his own Self-will and Affections, as a Holocaust to the Praise of his Grace; and every one, according to his Ability, is bound to do good, and distribute to the Wants of his Fellow-Creatures, for that God is pleased with such Sacrifices. But these fall infinitely short of that Sacrifice which GOD prepar'd for himself, that, in and through which, the others have Merit and Acceptance with him. What are our Alms and Oblations, but a little of that Abundance which he himfelf gives us? What are our Souls, but the sinful Inhabitants of Flesh? And our Bodies, but polluted Tabernacles; both less innocent, and consequently less fit for an Offering to the Holieft liest Chr of (blesse with and were it is the a boun takes Chris lifica ferer . point he fa As (Paul, Tran fices, ble P Sacrif partic tar (Jerve to fig the P and o here d Fews : the F

Priest

in Thi

(a)

d

6, d

33

[=

ch

in fe

0-en l'd

re

a-

1-

nd

a-

m,

ng

me

to

d-

lies,

ut

ch

gb

ue

25,

n-

ne

nt nd

ſŀ liest of Holies, than a Lamb or a Dove? The Christian Sacrifice then, as it is the Institution of Christ the Son of God, the Sacrifice of that most bleffed Body which was assumed into one Person with GOD himself, must be more transcending and excellent than all that went before, which were but Figures, Types and Shadows, of what it is the Substance and Antitype. It is not then the internal Sacrifice, which every Christian is bound to offer, by the Spiritual Priesthood he partakes in Virtue of the Mystical Union with Christ his Head; these are the Conditions, Qualifications, and Concomitants of a worthy Offerer: but it confifts in doing what Christ appointed and authorised his Ministers to do, when he faid, Do this in Commemoration of me; and, The Apostle St. As often as ye eat this, &c. Paul, in his Epistle to the Hebrews, sheweth the Translation of the Church, the Change of Sacrifices, and the Appointment of a more honourable Priesthood, in regard of the more excellent Sacrifice of the Evangelical Dispensation; and particularly Chap, xiii. 10. We have an Als tat (a), whereof they have no Power to eat who serve the Tabernacle: This cannot be restrained to fignify the Cross in a metaphorical Sense, for the Particle (have) denotes something present, and opposed to the Tabernacle, as (eating) is here opposed to the real and proper eating of the Jews at their Legal Sacrifices. And speaking of the Friesthood, Chap. v. he fays, Every High-Priest taken from among Men, is ordained for Men in Things pertaining to GOD, that he may offer both

⁽a) OUTION ELOV.

Gifts and Sacrifices for Sins .- And no Man taketh this Honour to himself, but he that is called of God. Aausaves (taketh) in the present Tense, agreeable to which the Words are still used against those who facrilegiously usurp the Priests Office; and as the Sense of Scripture is best found amongst the early Writers, so we may see all the primitive Fathers agreeing in this Doctrine of Sacrifice and Priesthood, which CHRIST hath appointed to continue in his Church till his Second Coming; they speak of them in the most sublime and lofty Terms. St. Clement calls the Holy Eucharist the Mystery of the New Testament. St. Irenaus calls it the New Oblation of the New Testament. St. Cyprian, the pure Oblation of the New Offering in the New Law; the vital and unpolluted Hoft, the honourable and dreadful Sacrifice, the Sacrifice of Eucharist or Thanksgiving: In fine, a Sacrifice which succeeds all the Sacrifices of the Old Law, and comprehends all Difference of Sacrifices. Both he and Tertullian usually call it a Sacrifice and Oblation, and Dominicum, i. e. our Lord's Sacrifice. St. Cyril calls it the Holy, Unbloody, and Life-giving Sacrifice in the Church. So St. Epiphanius, St. Hierom, St. Chrysoftome, and St. Augustin speak of it as a Mystery full of Wonder, with most high Elogies of Praise and Admiration.

So likewise the Fathers speak of the Priests of the Evangelical Law as of Persons ordained to offer this Sacrifice.

St. Ignatius the Martyr (b) fays, " That it is not lawful to offer or make Sacrifice without the Bishop, i. e. without his Leave.

5

" F

« u

0

S " I

se fi

se d

cc th

c ta

" C

" C

cc ar

1

Nice

cil,

mini

Cuff

er to

Chr

non

" B

" fe

Ep. 3

Ί

2 " J

FC

r " P

"

⁽b) Ep. ad Smyr.

St. Justin Martyr, (c) "God does not receive Hosts from any one, but from his Priests, in whom CHRIST JESUS did give us all Sacrifices, which are done in his Name; that is, in the Eucharist of the Bread and the "Cup, which Christians offer in all Places.
St. Cypr. (d) "As JESUS CHRIST our "LORD and GOD, the High-Priest, did

"first offer himself a Sacrifice to his Father, and command this to be done in his Commemo-ration, so the Priest truly executes CHRIST's Blace and important that which CHRIST's

"Place, and imitating that which CHRIST did, offers the true and perfect Sacrifice in the Church to GOD the Father in doing

" the Church to GOD the Father, in doing according to what he has feen CHRIST

" JESUS to offer. And elsewhere, (e) " Cer-" tainly the Priest holds truly the Place of " CHRIST, who doth that which JESUS " CHRIST did, and then offers the true and entire Sacrifice to GOD the Father in " the Church, Gc.

of

e,

ed

fts

nd

all

of

nd b-

0-

nt. ew

the

m-

a-

71-

he

ds

ernd

ril

ng St.

of gh

of

to ut

St.

The Holy Fathers in the First Council of Nice, A. D. 325. (f) It is reported to the Council, that in some Places and Cities the Deacons administer the Sacrament to Priests: Neither Rule nor Custom hath deliver'd, that those who have not Power to offer Sacrifices, should give it to them who offer Christ's Body.

The Third Council of Carthage hath this Canon (g); "In the Sacrament of the Body and "Blood of our Lord, nothing more is to be offered, than what our Lord himself hath de⁽c) Dialog. cum Tryph. (d) Epist. 63. (e) Lib.2. Ep. 3. (f) Can. 14. (g) Can. 24. "liver'd,

" liver'd, that is, Bread, and Wine mixed with "Water; no more is to be offered in the Sacri" fices, but of the Grape and Wheat.

I shall conclude this Head with the Words of the learned Bishop Sparrow, in his Rationale, of " Besides these Spiritual Sathe Word Priest. " crifices mentioned, the Ministers of the Gospel " have another Sacrifice to offer, viz. the unbloody " Sacrifice, as it was anciently called, the Com-" memorative Sacrifice of the Death of CHRIST; " which does as really and truly flew forth the " Death of CHRIST, as those Sacrifices under " the Law did foreshew it; and in respect of " this Sacrifice of the Eucharist, the Antients " have usually call'd those that offered it up ec Priests. And if Melchized ch was called a " Priest (as he is often by St. Paul to the " Hebrews) who yet had no other Sacrifice that " we read of, but that of Bread and Wine, why " may not they, whose Office it is to bless the " People, as Melchizedech did, and besides that " to offer that Holy Bread and Wine, the Body " and Blood of Christ, of which his Bread and " Wine was at the most but a Type, be as truly " and without Offence call'd Priests also?

I have been the longer on this, as it is of the greatest Concernment to the most principal Part of our religious Worship; the unbloody Sacrifice of the Altar being the Mean, by which the bloody Sacrifice on the Cross, which was offered for the Sins of the whole World, is particularly apply'd to every one of the Faithful for their Salvation. And our Pious Reformers shew'd great Regard to this, when they enjoyn'd the Celebration of it by fuch a Form, as the Liturgies of all Churches and Ages agree in, as the Esential of Holy

Worship;

Wol to m of C Obla and Deat our . our ceffic the r

Livin

came

place

By

neis of n due] has all T come the] where " Chi " wh " not

" Chi « cras "CI " Th " in c

" of (" and " Ch Worship; that is, by invocating the Holy Ghost to make the ELEMENTS the Body and Blood of CHRIST, and afterwards making a Solemn Oblation of this Sacrifice to GOD, obsecrating and beseeching him, by the Merits of CHRIST's Death, which we then commemorate, to accept our Persons and Service, to give us Remission of our Sins, and Life Eternal; and making Intercessions at the same time for the whole Church, the mystical Body of CHRIST, both for the Living, and for the Faithful that rest in Hope.

By what evil Influence this primitive Form came to be mutilated, and the Prayer of Oblation placed after the Distribution, it is not my Business to determine; but that it has been Matter of most serious Regret, to all that have made due Reflection on such Defects, is plain by what has been faid by the most eminent Writers in all Times fince. I shall give one Instance which comes full home to the Point, and that from the Learned and Judicious Mr. Thorndike (h), where he fays, " It is no found Part of GOD's " Church, that observes not the Laws of the " whole Church; and that if the Eucharist be not consecrated by the Means, by which the " Church from the beginning hath always confe-" crated it, it is not celebrated in the Unity of " CHRIST's Church.—And a little after, " That the Words of Institution are not operatory " in changing the Elements into the Body and Blood of CHRIST, but that it is to be executed, " and always hath been, by the AET of the " Church, upon GOD's Word of Institution, o type type

e

t

y

e

1.

0

⁽h) Just Weights, &c. p. 94.

" praying that the Holy Ghost coming down upon the " present Elements, may make them the Body and Blood of CHRIST.

The Mixture of Water with the Eucharistick Wine, as it's enjoyn'd by the First Liturgy, is also agreeable to the Practice of the whole Church, always and every where. It is generally held to be an Apostolical Tradition. St. Irenaus, St. Justin Martyr, St. Hierom, St. Chrysoftom, St. Augustin; St. Cyprian, all of them bear Testimony to the Use and Tradition of it. St. Clement (i) Mindful of those Things which he (CHRIST) hath suffered for us, we fulfil his Ordinance: For in the Night wherein he was betray'd he took Bread, &c. and in like manner mingling the Chalice with Wine and Water, and sanctifying it, he gave it to his Disciples.

St. Cypr. (k) Dominica servetur Traditio. That the Traditions of our Lord may be observed. He shews the mystical Signification of it— When the Water is mingled with the Wine in the Cup, the People are united to JESUS CHRIST; and the Multitude of Believers are gathered together, and joyned to him; in whom they believe. This Conjunction and Mixture of Water and Wine in the Cup of our LORD is so done that it cannot be separated, to fignify that nothing can separate the Church from CHRIST, &c.

The Mixture of Wine and Water then is an express Symbol of the Union that Christians have, or may have with CHRIST, it being the Design and Nature of this Sacrifice, to unite fignifi prefer his S there ing in time And xix. 3 which Side. which flowed is cer unmix the C Prece termi In cration and v ed in

our

Churc of the con ec (d) con fu rated

ment,

one be most

⁽i) Constit. Lib. 8. C. 17. (k) Ad Cærilium, Lib. 2. Epist. 3. our ⁽a) phyto Matt

d

ck

is le

e-

n.

it.

m

it.

he

bis

e-

n-

nd

at

d.

he

ľ;

er,

is

in

be

he

ın

ns

ng

te

m, ur

And it is expressive and our Souls to God. fignificant of our Saviour's Passion, as it represents the Blood and Water that flowed from his Side when it was pierced with a Spear; and therefore in the Greek Church, the Priest pouring in both the Wine and the Water at the same time into the Chalice, pronounceth these Words, And forthwith issued out Blood and Water, St. Joh. xix. 34. To this purpose St. Chrysoft. (a) That which is in the Chalice is that which flowed from his And St. Aug. (b) Take this in the Bread which hung on the Crofs; take that in the Cup which flowed from the Side of CHRIST. The Mystery is certainly better represented in a mixt than an unmixt Cup, and the uninterrupted Practice of the Church, built upon Apostolical Tradition and Precept, as the forementioned Council did determine, feems to argue most strongly for it.

In the First Liturgy, in the Action of Confecration, the Elements were figned with the Cross; and why figning with the Cross should be retained in Baptism, and omitted in the other Sacrament, I cannot apprehend, the Practice for the one being as Antient as for the other, from the most early Times. St. Cyprian (c) saith, The Church doth all the SACRAMENTS by Virtue of the CROSS; nothing can be sanctified, nothing consecrated without the Cross. And St. Chrysostom, (d) All Things which conduce to our Salvation are consummated by the Cross : For when we are regenerated (Baptized) the Cross of our Lord is present, phytos. (c) Lib. de Bapt, Matth.

L

⁽b) Serm. ad Neo-(d) Hom. 55. in xvi.

when we are nourished with the Holy Food [i. e. the Eucharist when we are, Oc.

St. Aug. (e) "What is the Sign of CHRIST, "which all know, but the Cross of Christ? Without which Sign, either in the Forehead of the Believers, or in the Water wherein they are baptized, or in the Oyl with which they are anointed, or in the Chrism when they are confirmed, or in the Sacrifice, whereby we are fed, "nothing of them is rightly done."

' nothing of them is rightly done.

I shall add one Testimony more out of Tertullian (f), Caro signatur ut anima muniatur, which describes the Practice of the Christians of his Time; "We sign our Foreheads with the Sign "of the Cross at our Progress and Motion, at our going forth and coming in, at our putting on our Cloaths and Shoes, at washing our Hands, at Table, at the coming of the Lights, going to our Beds, and sitting down, and to whatsoever we turn our selves.

I might add a great many Testimonies out of the early Fathers, St. Ignatius, St. Justin Martyr, Origen, St. Cyril of Jerusalem, Eusebius in the Life of Constantine, &c. who all bear witness to the religious Use of the Sign of the Cross, as the Christians Trophy against the Power of the Prince of this World, but shall forbear it; the Ensigns and Banners under which we fight, the Diadems and Coins of all Christian Princes bear witness to the constant Use of it; I hope there are none so fond of Contradiction, as to give up those early Ages in which it was practifed for

Times
the Fi
latry,
ther,
Parts

In Service made lome decease brough RATtant on Comin Catho departe and t Service lamente Church the ear to this the W ed Pra are irr of less that i peared was th polis of Herefie thus of a l

St. Au

⁽e) Tract. 118. in Jo. (f) De Corona militis.

Times

Times of Popery, or to affert that Constantine the First Christian Emperor, who extirpated Idolatry, did only change it, and introduce another, when he set up that Salutary Sign in all Parts of his Dominions.

-

e

e

1-

1-

h

S

n

t

g

e

1,

t

,

0

e

e

e

e

r

e

P

In the First Liturgy, both in the Eucharistick Service, and Office for Burial of the Dead, they made a Commemoration of Saints, and prayed in some proper Forms for the Souls of the Faithful deceased; which Commemoration was again brought in, on the Review after the RESTO-RATION; but the restraining Clause of Militant on Earth was left, which little favoured this Commemoration, and manifestly excluded the Catholick Practice of Prayers for our Brethren . departed. This Corruption of the first Liturgy, and the woful Deficiency in the most Solemn Service of the prefent, is what has been all along lamented by the pious and learned of the Reformed Churches. I shall not therefore need go back to the early Practice of the Church for Testimonies to this important Truth, the Liturgies of all Ages, the Writings of all the Fathers, the uninterrupted Practice of it in the Greek and Latin Churches, are irrefragable Witnesses; nor is there any Usage of less interrupted Continuance than this, so that in Fifteen Hundred Years there never appeared any that opposed it, fave one Aerius, who was therefore branded with the infamous Note of a Heretick, particularly by St. Epiphanius and St. Augustin.

St. Epiphanius, Bishop of Salamis, the Metropolis of the Isle of Cyprus, one well studied in Herefies, and in all the Doctrines of the Church, thus taxes that bold Heretick in his Answer to him: (g) " As for reciting the Names of " those who are deceased, and praying for them " in the Sacred Oblations, what can be bet-" ter than this? What more commodious, what " more admirable, than that fuch as are here-" at present, should believe that they who are " departed, and absent from the Body, do " live? This doth the Church necessarily " perform, as having received it by Tradition from the Fathers.—— And who knows these " Things best? Either this poor seduced Fellow, " who is but newly sprung up, and now living " amongst us, or they who were Witnesses be-" fore us, and who held the same Traditions in " the Church which they had learned from their " Ancestors, as the Church to this Day observes, " even the true and fincere Faith, which it re-" ceived with the Traditions from the Fathers?

Thus does the learned Father proceed in refuting this pestilent Heretick, who was an ill Man in the Judgment of all; for being proud and conceited, and missing of a Bishoprick, he quarrelled not only at diverse Practices in the Church, but at Episcopacy it self, and so was deservedly chastised by the Pen of those famous Fathers, in whose Time he liv'd. So that if Prayers for the Dead were never opposed but once, and that by one only Person, for the space of Fisteen Hundred Years, and that Ferson be stigmatized for a Heretick by the general Voice of the Catholick Writers, it will become us to be very careful that we condemn not a Catholick Dostrine, or espouse a condemned Heresy, or

schif

from

tientl

Etice

ftime

all t fo fu

Proo

ny Ta

Is it

it no

Evil

Reale

Reve

this !

of ou or a

Pray

then

cond

been

and to g conle

fiable

med

PR

mon

and valg:

Fait how othe

on u

 $B\iota$

M

⁽g) Hæref. 75.

schismatically divide our selves in this Practice from the Catholick Church, which has so consentiently maintained this in their Belief and Pra-Hice in every Age.

n

11

d

e

e

-

15

if

e,

of

5of

ek

r

My Business therefore is not to produce Testimonies for the belief of Prayers for the Dead; all the Liturgies and Fathers, all Antiquity being fo full of it; but to put our Adversaries on the Proof of its being unlawful. Can they shew any Testimony against it, from any but a Heretick? Is it contrary to any Command of Scripture? Is it not innocent and free from all Appearance of Evil? Is it not agreeable to the Rules of Charity, Reason, and Religion, the Light of Nature and Revelation? Is it not the Practice of the Jews at this Day? Was it not their Practice in the Time of our Saviour, and never reprehended by HIM or any of his Apostles? And to conclude, if Prayers for the Dead be Popery, and an Error, then the whole Catholick Church, from the Second Century downwards, has been Bopiss, has been missed, and in the Practice of an Error; and is not this to serve Popery with a witness, to give them up all Ages of Christianity, and consequently to make our Separation more justifiable?

But if the most Eminent amongst the Reformed Churches have claimed this Doctrine as PROTESTANT, and belonging to common Christianity, as Catholick and Orthodox, and consequently no part of Popery (as Popery is vulgarly taken to signify a Corruption of the Faith) then it will appear our Duty to affert it, however neglected by some, and reproached by others; and by all the Obligation can be laid on us by our Faith of a Catholick Church, and Com=

Communion of Saints, in Union with the one and the other, both which are Parts of the ONE Body of Christ to declare and vindicate this our Belief from the calumnious Charges of our Adversaries, that they may no longer have it in their Power to delude the Simple or Ignorant with Words of a frightful Sound, and Spirit them up to the Opposition of every thing that is Primitive and Catholick with the Cry of Popery, amongst which there is not any thing that in vulgar Esteem is reckoned Ranker Poperp, than Prayers for the Dead. Not only the Ignorant, but some of greater Note (blindly following the common Notions) have Prejudices against it, which calm Reflection and a little good Nature would foon remove; and therefore I shall fubjoyn a few Testimonies from some most famous Protestants, both at Home and Abroad, declaring themselves very fully on this Head.

The first shall be the famous Archbishop Ufber, a Person in great Esteem with the Reformed Abroad, as well as at Home, who in his Answer to Malone, of Prayers for the Dead, p. 194. hath these Words. "The Romanists indeed do com-" monly take it for granted, that Purgatory and " Prayers for the Dead, are so closely linked together, " that the one doth necessarily follow the other. But " in fo doing they reckon without their Hoft, " and greatly mistake the Matter. For how-" foever they may deal with their own De-" vices as they please, and link their Prayers " with their Purgatory as closely as they lift, " yet shall they never be able to shew that the " Communion and Prayers for the Dead used by " the antient Church, had any relation to Pur-" gatory." Whence we may see how, in the Oz pini is C first an (feem ent weig but him earn ned a toge a lat and ten] fides Test Ipeal and . little

Bisho dice, lent which the ha

The dike * for the pinion

Give

Souls

pinion of this great Man, Prayers for the Dead is Catholick, and Purgatory only Popish; the first the Custom of the Antient Church, the other an Opinion of later Date. It is true the Bishop feems to make little Account of this antient Practice; however, the Concession is of weight in the Controversy, and such as nothing but the Force of Truth could have drawn from him; for in the heat of Dispute, he is so very earnest against the One, and so little concerned about the Other, that he dashes them often together, and according to the Observation of a late ingenious Author, he spends threescore and ten Pages on the general Matter, and not ten Lines to the purpose, which produced, befides the Concession above-mentioned, this full Testimony from the great Bishop Andrews, who speaking of this Subject of Prayers for the Dead, and Bishop Usher's Performance, says, There is little can be said against what this great Man takes such Pains to oppose.

And this is a full Declaration of the Belief of Bishop Andrews in this Point, who by his Practice, has born some witness to it, in his excellent Devotions published in Greek and Latin; in which, p. 49. he prays, Viventium & mortuorum miserere, O Domine: O Lord, shew thy Mercies to the Living and the Dead; the like he has p. 115. p. 147. Remember all our Fathers and Brethren who are Deceased. And p. 326. Give to the Living Mercy and Grace, and to the Souls Departed, Rest and Light eternal.

The eminently learned and judicious Mr. Thorndike * speaks fully of a Middle State, and Prayers for the Dead, and says, "That the Practice of ^{*} Just Weights and Measures, P. 100, 101.

" the Church in interceding for them at the Cele-" bration of the Eucharift, is so general, and so " ancient, that it cannot be thought to have " come in upon Imposture, but that the same "Afpersion will seem to take hold of common " Christianity." He quotes Justin Martyr, who makes it a Part of the Gnostick Heresy, to say, That the Souls of the Faithful, without the Body, are in perfect Happiness. And p. 107. "Though there be Hopes for those that are most " follicitous to live and die good Christians, that " they are in no fuch Suspense, but within the " Bounds of the Heavenly Jerusalem; yet because " their Condition is uncertain, and where there " is Hope of the better, there is Fear of the " worse; therefore the Church hath always affisted " them with the Prayers of the Living, both " for their speedy Trial (which all blessed Souls " defire) and for their easy Absolution and Dis-" charge with Glory before God." And again, " There is the same Ground to believe p. 159. the Communion of Saints in the Prayers which " those that depart in the highest Favour with " God make for us, and in the Prayers which we " make for those which depart in the lowest Fa-" your with God, that there is for the common " Christianity, namely, the Scriptures interpreted by " the perpetual Practice of God's Church." And else-" where, "That all the Members of the Church Tri-" umphant in Heaven, according to the Degree of " their Favour with God, abound also with Love " to his Church Militant on Earth ---- offer conti-" nual Prayers for those Necessities they suffer; " that their Prayers are of great Force and Effect " with God, to the Affistance of the Church Mili-" tant in her Warfare — That this being true, ec the

th the be

T —W Dead migh on, i prehe amon tant i Babyli cond

Th

most I

be co

the fir Esteer That of his into a Promo Forbes, greater

The himfel in this pro-

[†] Vo

the Communion of Saints will necessarily require, " that all who remain folicitous for their Trial,

" be affisted with the Prayers of the Living, for " their present Comfort, and future Rest.

The Lutherans of the Ausburgh Confession, say, -We know the Ancients Speak of Prayers for the Dead, which we also do not deny. A great deal might be found in the Writers of that Communion, in favour of this Catholick Practice.

Grotius † fays, the antient Liturgies are not to be condemned, fince Christ himself did never reprehend the Prayers for the Dead, commonly used among the Jews, of which there is a Form extant in the Talmud, made, as is believed, in the Babylonian Captivity, and mentioned in the fecond Book of the Maccabees.

The last Testimony I shall bring, is from the most learned, pious, and peaceable Bishop Forbes, the first Bishop of Edinburgh, who was in so great Esteem with the Pious Martyr King Charles I. That upon the Bishop of St. Andrews's enquiring of his Majesty, at his first Erection of Edinburgh into an Episcopal See, whom he defigned for that Promotion? Who, fays the good King, but Forbes, worthy, as your felf well know, to fill a greater Chair!

e

n

0

,

e ít

it

e ſe

e

ie

d

h

19

6

n,

re

h

h ve

a-

on

by

e-

1-

of

ve

tir; ect

li-

ie,

he

This our worthy Countryman, * thus expresses himself for the Triumph of Truth over Novelty in this Question- " But here first is to be re-" proved the Opinion of some rigid Protestants, " who do altogether censure and condemn Pray-

M

[†] Vot. pro Pace. Considerationes Modesta, &c. Controv. de Purgatorio, Cap. 3. Sect. 17. cc ers

" ers for the Dead, because (say they) they find " no Precept or Example of fuch Prayers in the "Old or New Testament. Certainly, even " those who are most against it, dare not deny, "that it is a most universally received Custom " in the whole Church of CHRIST, that in the " publick Prayers of the Church, Commemoration " should be made for the Dead, and Rest be " prayed to GOD for those who dyed piously in the Peace of the Church" - And having cited divers of the Ancients for it, he adds-" This most ancient Custom was full of Piety; " and most truly did Cassander say, This was always fixt in all Christian Minds, that the Spirits of those who being initiated in the Sacrament of Christ, departed this Life in the Confession of his Name, with Signification of Repentance, should be recommended to the Mercy of God, that Remission of Sins, eternal Rest, and a Part with the Elect might be intreated for them. And although, concerning that State of Souls for which those things were profitable, it was neither sufficiently manifest, nor agreed amongst all, yet all judged this Office as a Testimony of Charity towards the deceased, and a Profession of Faith concerning the Immortality of the Soul, and Resurrection to come, to be grateful to God, and profitable to the Church. - Then he faith "This most " ancient and universal Custom of the Church, very many, and most learned Protestants, do " not disallow" ---- and cites the Apology of the Ausburg Confession, Chemnitius, Mentzerus, Luther, Gerardus, Urbanus Regins, Vorstins, Vossius, Dr. Fulk, Bp. Andrews, then the Words of the Liturgy of King Edward VI. both in the Office for the Communion, and that of Burial, laments that fuch antient and pious Prayers should by the Perfuation

Perf " m " fh " at

" o

" E
" P
" ot
" fa

cc of

" de twee

I

how and fenfi fuch of t in t

ment the whi alreigno

Fou

dou firm may

the

Persuasion of Bucer be expunged. " These pri-" mitive and devout Prayers (fays he) the Bi-" shops of the Church of England afterwards, " at the Advice and Instigation of Bucer and " Others, rased out, or gave them I know not " what Turn more favouring of modern Novelty; " but it were to be wish'd that the Church of " England (which otherwise merits no small " Praise for her great Moderation shewn in many " other Things, and those perhaps not of the " fame Moment) had on this Occasion, and Jome " others, conformed to the most antient Practice " of the Universal Church, rather than for " fome Errors and Abuses that crept in after by " degrees, to the great Scandal of almost all " other Christians, to have renounced and en" tirely removed this Usage.

ind

the

ven

ny,

om

the

tion

be

ıfly

ing

5--- ty;

al-

s of

of

his

reof

hat

ble, gst

ri-

cn-

ion

the

oft

h,

do

the

er,

Or.

for

at

be

on

I might go through the other Differences between the first, and the present Liturgy, and shew how well their Practice is founded in Scripture and early Antiquity, and confequently how defensible they are against the Charge of Popery; fuch are private Confession to a Priest, the Dyl of the bick, and the like, which are used both in the Greek and Roman Church, and have their Foundation in Apostolical Tradition and Appointment, and may all of them be faid to stand on the same Foundation with other Things, about which we have no Dispute. But what I have already faid may perhaps give Occasion to some ignorant, tho otherwise well-meaning People, to think me inclinable to favour Popery; and no doubt the Rigid Professors will be ready to confirm this Suspicion: And therefore, that there may be no room for any such Mistake, even in the most uncharitable, I declare my self a hearty M 2 and fincere PROTESTANT, and that I renounce every Thing either in the Doctrine or Worship of the Church of Rome, that is not warranted by Scripture and the Practice of the Primitive Church, and the unanimous Consent of After-Ages; but whatever is agreeable to Orthodox Religion, I think it ought not to be rejected because it is retained in the Church of Rome. The Rule of St. Augustin takes place here (a), In those Things whereof the Divine Scriptures have no way determined, the Custom of GOD's People, or Constitution of our Elders is to be held as a Law. There is no Liberty for Separation from the Catholick Church in such Things, however we may separate from Rome. The Consequence of such Indulgence to Novelty is ever fatal to the Interests of Religion, for there can be no Bounds fet to Licentiousness of Opinion: Pull down the Walls and Bulwarks of the Church, and Heresy will enter; remove the Landmarks of the Elders, and the Sacred Inclosures will become Common. No better Effect had the Compliance of the Orthodox Bishops, who laid aside the Catholick Usages in the First Liturgy to gratify the Party, than to make them Clamour for more Abatements; they reformed on the reformed Liturgy, but all was Popery to them that was retained. They pared sufficiently, even to the Quick; but while Epifcopacy and Liturgy were left, all was Popery still. And that these were the real Eye-fores, the Butt of their Aim, tho' Ceremonies and Subscription were the Pretence, we had a sufficient Demonitration afterwards in the Reformation they

Wrou

ment

tende

more

King.

Sanc

ufurp

died

cent,

they

it fel

than he g

(b)

" lil

ec ne

ec bi

" al

cc w

« la

" I

" P

" p

« a

« a

« v

" I

(1

" ar

⁽a) Epist. 86.

wrought in these Nations; they fought an Abatement of some few Things for the Ease of the tender Consciences; when this was granted, more was fought, till having murdered the best of Kings, and a learned Prelate, they could give a Sanction to their Wickedness by the Power they usurped. Sacrilege and Murder, Murder of a studied Heinousness, committed on a Person so Innocent, fo Sacred, by which they professed that they hated even Innocency and Christian Meekness it felf! I cannot better describe this Reformation, than in the Words of Vincentins Lyrinenfis, where he gives Account of the Progress of the Arians, (b) " When the profane Novelty of the Arians, "like some Bellona or Fury, had taken Cap-" tive the People, subduing all Places to her " new Laws, never ceased after that to trouble " and confound all Things private and publick, " putting no Difference betwixt Good and Truth, " but as it were from an high Place, did strike " all at her Pleasure. Then married Women " were defiled, Widows spoiled, Virgins vio-" lated, Abbies suppressed, Clergy-men vexed, " Deacons beaten, Priests banished, Dungeons, " Prisons, Mines, filled with Holy Men, of " which the greater Part banished like Exiles, " pined and confumed away amongst Defarts, " Dens and wild Beafts, with Nakedness, Thirst, " and Hunger. And all this Misery, had it " any other beginning? But because human Superstition was admitted for heavenly Doctrine, " well-grounded Antiquity subverted by wicked " Novelty, whilft the Decrees of our Superiours

⁽b) Lib. 1. Cap. 2.

and fincere PROTESTANT, and that I renounce every Thing either in the Doctrine or Worship of the Church of Rome, that is not warranted by Scripture and the Practice of the Primitive Church, and the unanimous Consent of After-Ages; but whatever is agreeable to Orthodox Religion, I think it ought not to be rejected because it is retained in the Church of Rome. The Rule of St. Augustin takes place here (a), In those Things whereof the Divine Scriptures have no way determined, the Custom of GOD's People, or Constitution of our Elders is to be held as a Law. There is no Liberty for Separation from the Catholick Church in such Things, however we may sepa-The Confequence of fuch Inrate from Rome. dulgence to Novelty is ever fatal to the Interests of Religion, for there can be no Bounds fet to Licentiousness of Opinion: Pull down the Walls and Bulwarks of the Church, and Herefy will enter; remove the Landmarks of the Elders, and the Sacred Inclosures will become Common. No better Effect had the Compliance of the Orthodox Bishops, who laid aside the Catholick Usages in the First Liturgy to gratify the Party, than to make them Clamour for more Abatements; they reformed on the reformed Liturgy, but all was Popery to them that was retained. They pared sufficiently, even to the Quick; but while Epifcopacy and Liturgy were left, all was Popery still. And that these were the real Eye-fores, the Butt of their Aim, tho' Ceremonies and Subscription were the Pretence, we had a sufficient Demonitration afterwards in the Reformation they

Wrot

ment

tend more

King

Sanc

ufurt

died

cent

they

it fe

than

he g

(b) " li ec ti

ec ne

" b

cc w

« la

" I

cc W

" a

" I

(1

" p

" al

⁽a) Epist. 86.

wrought in these Nations; they fought an Abatement of some few Things for the Ease of the tender Consciences; when this was gramed, more was fought, till having murdered the best of Kings, and a learned Prelate, they could give a Sanction to their Wickedness by the Power they usurped. Sacrilege and Murder, Murder of a studied Heinousness, committed on a Person so Innocent, so Sacred, by which they professed that they hated even Innocency and Christian Meekness it felf! I cannot better describe this Reformation, than in the Words of Vincentins Lyrinenfis, where he gives Account of the Progress of the Arians, (b) " When the profane Novelty of the Arians, "like some Bellona or Fury, had taken Cap-" tive the People, subduing all Places to her " new Laws, never ceased after that to trouble " and confound all Things private and publick, " putting no Difference betwixt Good and Truth, " but as it were from an high Place, did strike " all at her Pleasure. Then married Women " were defiled, Widows spoiled, Virgins vio-" lated, Abbies suppressed, Clergy-men vexed, " Deacons beaten, Priests banished, Dungeons, " Prisons, Mines, filled with Holy Men, of " which the greater Part banished like Exiles, " pined and confumed away amongst Defarts, " Dens and wild Beafts, with Nakedness, Thirst, " and Hunger. And all this Mifery, had it " any other beginning? But because human Superstition was admitted for heavenly Doctrine, " well-grounded Antiquity subverted by wicked " Novelty, whilft the Decrees of our Superiours

⁽b) Lib. 1. Cap. 2.

"were violated, the Ordinances of the Fathers were broken, the Canons of our Ancestors abrogated, and whilst the licentious Liberty of profane and new Curiosity kept not it self within the chast Limits of Sacred and Sound Anti-

" quity.

And now, to make this as useful as possible to those of my Neighbours and Friends, for whom it is principally design'd, I find it absolutely necessary to go a little farther, than at first I proposed. They labour under two Missakes, of which tho' they make but little Account, yet they appear to me to be of the last Consequence; and therefore (in Christian Charity) I think my self obliged (as far as in me lyes) to undeceive them; and for that end shall advance nothing, for which I shall not bring sufficient Authority.

The first is, That many, tho' otherways good, well-meaning People, look upon Schism to be a very trivial harmless Thing; they have been so long surrounded with it, and so much conversant with Schismaticks, that they never consider the Nature of it, nor the sad Consequences that attend it.

The 2d is, they take the Government of the Church to be indifferent, and that Ordination without Bishops, by meer Presbyters, is of the same Validity as that given by Bishops; and consequently, that Presbyterian Teachers have the same Power to Preach, and administer the Sacraments, as Episcopal Ministers have; and in Consequence of that Mistake, many do sometimes joyn with the one, and sometimes with the other, occasionally, as their Interest leads them. I shall endeavour to set these Points in

in as muc

mar

to e tura

the

Chu

Off

disc

Roc

kers,

chy .

othe

Chr

For

the

the

the

all i

Sch

Con

fhal

Chu

of S

Prie

will

with or a

mus

but

is bi

he is but

fered

T

as clear a Light as I can, and that with as much Brevity as possible, knowing there are many that will read a Pamphlet, that care not to engage with a large Volume.

As to the first; In that barbarous and unnatural Rebellion against the best of Kings, Charles the First, the Bishops, the chief Pastors of the Church were facrilegiously turned out of their Offices, the Publick Worship of the Church discharg'd, and Presbitery establish'd, from which Root sprang up Independents, Anabaptists, Quakers, Muggletonians, Family of Love, Fifth Monarchy Men, all of them free-Thinkers, and many other Schismaticks never before heard of in the Christian World, all of them setting up one Form against another, and joyning Hands against the One, Catholick, and Orthodox Church, under the Name of Diffenters in general. Whereas if the Church of Christ be One, as it certainly is, all in Disunion from her must be in a State of Schifm, and fo in a very finful and deplorable Condition, as will appear by what follows. I shall first consider wherein the Unity of the Church confifts; 2dly, The Nature and Danger of Schism; and 3dly, if there be any Regular Priestood amongst these Dissenters, and by that will appear the Danger of Schism, the joyning with it, or countenancing it by our Presence, or any other way.

The Visible Catholick Church of CHRIST must be One; CHRIST the Head thereof is but One Head, and can have but One Body; he is but One Spouse, and can have but One Bride; he is the One chief Corner-stone, and so can serve but for One Building; he is the One Sacrifice offered up for the Sins of Mankind, and so there can be but One Altar. This Unity of the Church might be proved by innumerable Passages of Scripture, which for Brevity's sake I shall omit, it being an Article of our Creed, I Believe in the Boly Catholick Church; By this One Catholick Church, is meant the Church of CHRIST, as in all Ages, so in all Nations; He that's a Priest in any one National Church, that's in Communion with the Catholick Church, is a Priest in all the Catholick Church, of which CHRIST is the only Head and Center of Unity; and if any one Person, Society or Nation, cuts it self off from the Communion of this One, Catholick Church, they thereby involve themselves in the Guilt of Schism.

And this brings me to confider, wherein the Unity of any National Church confifts, and it's in this; The Bishop of every particular Church is the Center of Unity of that Church of which he's Chief Governour; for without his Authority, neither Priest, Deacon, nor Laick, can do any thing that's meerly Ecclefiastick; and therefore it was that St. Paul fent Timothy and Titus, thefe two Bishops, to ordain Elders in the Churches of Crete and Ephesus, giving them a Jurisdiction over these Churches, and Rules whereby to regulate themselves therein. That Holy Martyr, St. Ignatius before-mention'd, fays, (c) " Let " no Man without the Bishop do any thing " that belongs to the Church. Where the Bi-" shop is, there let the Multitude be. He that " doth any thing without the Bishop, serves the (d) As many as are GOD's and

...C

ding

out t

ing

GO

return Bishop

that !

from

ing (

fhop,

And

scribe

an In Bisho

dares

One I

the B

of the

that '

to de

trover

in the fore-c

Apost

Cente

and th

may l

King

vation

in fo

ven b

(u) Ep

⁽c) Ep. ad Smyr.

⁽d) Ep. tothe Philip.

"CHRIST are with the Bishop;" fo excluding from CHRIST's Body all that are without the Bishop. And in the same Epistle, speaking of the Repentance of Schifmaricks, and of GOD's Pardon offer'd to fuch, he fays, If they return to the Unity of GOD, and Senate of the Bishop; thereby plainly declaring, that without that Condition they could not expect Pardon from GOD. So also saith St. Cyprian, speaking of the Schismatical Presbyters of Felitiffimus (a), in their breaking off from the Bishop, and causing others likewise to do so. And in his Book of Church Unity (b) he describes the Schismatick to be Filius Impius, &c. an Impious Son, who having contemned the Bishops, and forfaken the Priests of GOD, dares constitute another Altar. He says (c), One Thing ye are to know, that he that is not with the Bishop, is not in the Church. The Writings of the Holy Pathers are so full in this Matter, that it's impossible for any that has read them to deny, that this was the universal and uncontroverted Opinion of the whole Catholick Church in the earliest Ages of Christianity; and so by the fore-cited Rule of St. Augustine, must be an Apostolical Instituting, that the Bishop was the Center of Unity in every National Church, and that Separation from him was Schifm, and may be faid to be an open Rebellion against the King of Heaven, and High-Priest of our Salvation, even the LORD JESUS CHRIST, in fo far as it's a contemning the Authority, given by him, to his Vicegerents and immediate ⁽a) Epist. 4. (b) De Unitate Ecclesia. (c) Epist. 64.

Substitutes on Earth, the Bishops of the Christian Church; for when he sent forth his Eleven Apostles, (d) to Teach and Baptize all Nations, for their Encouragement, and the Church's Comfort and Stability in Subsequent Ages, he tells them, he will be with them to the end of the World; from which it will naturally follow, that those who are not in Unity with them, cannot be united to him; and those who contemn them, contemn him that fent them; and deplorable is the Condition of all fuch. Schifm in all Ages was deem'd a Sin of a most heinous Nature both by GOD and his Church. Remarkable is the History of that Schism of Korah (e) and his Accomplices, they separated from Moses and Aaron, and withstood their Authority, faying, All the Congregation was boly as well as they; which, by the way, is the common Cant of all Schismaticks to this very Day, all Sects of them pretending to a greater Degree of San-Etity than is to be found any where elfe; but I must tell them, that all that outward Sanctity they can attain to, will be of no Use to them as long as they continue in a State of Schism; and they'll find that Saying to be true (fome time or other) Extra Ecclefiam, nulla Salus. But to return; as the Sin of Korah, &c. was heinons, fo was the Punishment GOD was pleased to inflict upon them for it dreadful. He was fo incens'd by it, that he commanded Moses and Aaron (f) to separate themselves from amongst the People, that he might destroy them all in a Moment ;

Mon thef of a zurat delt Mose from Wiv to t lowe not LO Fifty offer ron Prief his their from their Cov ven. LOI Thir put. gally was it a did 1 faid,

he a

⁽d) Matth. xxviii. 20. (e) Numb. xvi. (f) Ver.

be

1,

1,

d

n

IS

th

m у,

25

it

ts

1-

it

y

m

1;

ie

it

15, 0

O

d

ft

a

T

Moment; but upon the Intercession of Moses, in thele Words, O GOD, the GOD of the Spirits of all Flesh, shall one Man sin, and wilt thou be with with all the Congregation ? GOD did not destroy them ail; but upon the Command of Moses, separating themselves, and departing from the Tents of Korah, (g) they, their Men, Wives, and Children, and all that appertained to them, the Earth opening its Mouth, swallowed all up alive; and yet the Punishment did not there stop, for Fire came out from the LORD, (h) and consum'd Two Hundred and Fifty of the Princes of Israel, and that for their offering Incense, not being of the Seed of Aaron (i); that is to say, for their invading the Priests Office, not being legally sent, as Aaron and his Sons were: And farther, for a Memorial of their Sin and Punishment, and to deter others from the like ever after, GOD commanded their Censers to be made broad Plates for the Covering of the Altar; and the Reason is given, (k) because they had been once offered to the LORD. By which we may likewise see, that Things once dedicated to a pions Use, cannot be put to a profane one, tho' once abused or illegally used, Tollatur abusus maneat usus. As this was a formidable Schism and Rebellion, so was it as remarkably and severely punish'd, for it did not stop here, the People again Murmuring, faid, (1) Te have killed the People of the LORD; he again commanded Moses and Aaron, to get them from amongst the People, that he might confume them in a Moment; and notwithstanding that, upon their repeated Intercession, he was pleased to mitigate the Punishment he once designed. yet he fent a Plague amongst them, that swept away Fourteen Thousand Seven Hundred (m). I shall lastly observe; that Korah was of the Tribe of Levi, which GOD had so far honoured, as to fet them apart for his own immediate Service; yet not content with that honourable Station GOD was pleased to put him in, he would needs assume Powers above what was given, and invade those of his Superiours; this it was that led him into the Sin, and brought the Punishment upon him. And his Example, methinks; may perfuade every Perfon in Church and State to keep themselves within their own Limits, and be a Warning that they invade not the Offices properly belonging to their Superiours, lest if they follow the Sin of Korab, they feel his Punishment.

N 2

⁽g) Numb. xvi. 32. (h) Ver. 35. (i) Ver. 40. (k) Ver. 39. (l) Ver. 41.

I have been more full in this Account, because there are several Points in it, which duly considered, are sufficient to deter any one from the Sin of Schifm, and usurping of the Priesthood, without a legal Call or Warrant for the Exercise of that Office; and I wish that all those, who are either guilty of the practising or countenancing of that Sin, may duly consider this. We know how often the Ten Tribes sell into most horrid Idolatries, after they had separated themselves from the other Two, and that GOD as often most severely punished them for it. It's impossible for those that separate themselves

from

from

Erro

Schi

daily

of In a na

GO

Nam

19.

bavin

our ;

to e

Schil

ment

more

Schil

With

the F

Proud

zwhofe

HEA

of Sc

cited

ture

prefly

ftrict

in the

that

that ?

ye rec

(n) (p)

13, 14

11. 18. (x) 2

⁽m) Numb. xyl: 49, (d) iya dan (a) from the Church, but they must fall into Gross Errors; and the longer they continue in their Schism, the worse they grow, as we see by our daily Experience.

$

n

yntie or eft

i-

s

25

n

In the New Testament Schism is said to have a natural Tendency to Subvert the Kingdom of GOD (n). It's difgrac'd with the abominable Name of being a Work of the Flesh (0), St. Jude 19. These be they who separate themselves, sensual, having not the Spirit; nay, it's even made by our LORD himself such a Crime, as consigns to everlasting Burnings (p). St. Austin takes Schism to be the Sin against the Holy Ghost, mentioned Matth. xii. and xxiii. No Sinners more odiously represented in Holy Writ than Schismaticks. They are call'd Exotick Plants (9), Withered Branches to be gathered up and cast into the Fire (r), False Brethren (s), Antichrists (t), Proud, knowing nothing (u), Unruly, vain Talkers, whose Mouths should be stopt, their Prayers are NOT HEARD (w). A great many more such Places of Scripture might be adduced, if those already cited were not sufficient to shew the heinous Nature of the Sin of Schism. St. Paul (x) exprefly forbids Communion with them in a most ffriet manner; Now we command you, Brethren, in the Name of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, that you withdraw your felves from every Brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the Tradition ye received from es: And, (y) If any Man obey ⁽n) Matth. xii. 25. (o) 1 Cor. i. 1, 3, 4. (p) Heb. vi. 4, 5, &c. and x. 25. (q) Matth. xv. 13, 14. (r) Joh. xv. 6. (s) 2 Cor. ii. 26. (t) 1 Joh. ii. 18. (u) 1 Tim. vi. 4. (w) 1 Joh. v. 14. (x) 2 Theff. iii. 6 (y) Ver. 14.

and nicat

, B

Chur

byter

be A

decre

ing L

and h

his O

by A

were

fhops

this i

Canon what

of So

acting

and S

eltabl

Decem

excon

cellen

(c)

of the

not our Word by this Epiftle, note that Man, and have no Company with him. We have a notable Instance in another Place of St. Paul's Writings (z), which may serve for all. Mark them which cause Divisions and Dissensions, contrary to the Doctrine which ye have learned, and avoid them. This Apostle's Command here is as express as any thing can be, against our being present at Schismatical Worship, or countenancing the same.

It was in Obedience to these Commands of the Apostles, that the primitive Church, in sub-sequent Ages, by several Canons of her Councils, expressly prohibited, under most severe Penalties, all Communion with Hereticks, which in those Days was deemed the same with Schifmaticks.

The 45th of the Canons, commonly called Apofeolical, orders, That a Bishop, Presbyter, or Deacon, that joyns in Prayer with a Heretick, shall be excommunicated.

Can. 46. A Bishop, or Presbyter, who approves of the Baptism or Eucharist of Hereticks, shall be deposed.

The 16th Canon of the Ancyran Council (a), enacts, That if any Presbyters raife Sedition against their Bishops, they shall be deprived of the Honour of Presbyters, and excommunicated.

The 16th Canon of the Great Council of Nice (b) enacts, That if any Presbyter or Deacon, neglecting the Fear of GOD, and disregarding the Rules of the Church, shall separate from the Churches to which they belong, they must not be received into ⁽z) Rom. xvi. 17. (a) An. 315. (b) An. 325. any any other Churches, but driven back to their own; and if they continue stubborn, let them be excommunicated.

By the 6th Canon of the Council of Gangra (c), If any Man shall hold a private Meeting out of the Church, and despising the Church shall presume to perform the Offices of the Church, the officiating Presbyter not being licensed thereto by the Bishop, let him be Anathema.

The 6th Canon of the Council at Antioch (d) decrees, That if any Presbyter, or Deacon, contemning his own Bishop, shall separate from the Church, and hold Assemblies, and set up another Altar, refusing to obey his Bishop once and again calling for his Obedience, he shall be deposed, and never again restored to his Honour. And this Canon was read by Aetius the Arch-Deacon, in the 4th Act of that Great Council of Chalcedon (e), wherein were assembled Three Hundred and Sixty Bishops, who all cry'd out, This is a just Rule; this is the Rule of our Holy Fathers. Many more Canons could be produced for this Purpose, but what I have brought may be sufficient.

If any should oppose to these Canons, the Canons of that famous National Council of the Church of Scotland at Glasgow, November 1638. assembled without the Leave of their Bishops, and acting contrary to the Authority both of Church and State, which after it had condemn'd the establish'd Worship of the Church, Ss. 14. Ss. 20. December 13. deposed the whole Hierarchy, and excommunicated their Metropolitan, that excellent Prelate Arch-Bishop Spotswood, an Assembly

f

of

of

n,

be es to

ny

⁽c) An. 340. (d) An. 341. (e) An. 451. fembly fembly of meer Presbyters, and Lay-Elders (a strange fort of Church-Officers) who had usurped the Power of the Keys. I fay, if any Person pleases to oppose the Canons of that Assembly, or the subsequent Presbyterian Assemblies of the Kirk fince that time, to the fore-cited Canons of those Antient Councils, I shall make no other Reply, than to desire the Reader to consider (for it's very material) that in the time of most of these fore-cited Councils and Fathers, the Charismata, or the outward visible Influences of the Holy Ghost, had not then ceased in the Church, and I think our Presbyterian Assemblies will not pretend to those visible Influences amongst them: I have desir'd the Reader to observe this, that he may the better distinguish betwixt the Authority of these Antient Councils, and those Modern pack'd Assemblies, and consequently the Authority and Strength of my Quotations. Let no Man think that Schism, or countenancing of Schism, is less Criminal now, than it was either under the Law of Moses, or under the Gospel in the earliest Ages of the Christian Church: The Truths delivered by our Bleffed Saviour are of Eternal Verity, and the Commands of the Apostles will be binding on the Church, till the Second Coming of our LORD and Saviour IESUS CHRIST.

And now I come farther to enquire, if there be any Regular or Valid Priestbood, or Ministry, amongst the Dissenters, of what Denomination soever; for if I can prove there is no Valid Ordination, but what is given by a Bishop, then I hope none will pretend any Regular Ordination can be found amongst any of the Dissenters, seeing they have no Bishops; and I will endeavour

Pov ever low

I ons had nent She furre him the and orda Fam of 3 Chu byte Barr thori was give dain Pow mad Chur fore there natio ing, and

(a)

defce vour to prove, that in the Bishops the sole Power of Ordination has been still lodg'd, ever since our Saviour's Time, by what follows.

on or

irk

sie

ly,

efe

ta,

nd

ot

1:

at lu-

0-u-

et

of

er

in

he

of

he

he ur

ere

ry,

on id en nars,

a-

ut

In the New Testament we find no Commissions granted, nor Orders given, but by those who had Episcopal Authority, either formally or eminently. Our LORD and Saviour, the great Shepherd and Bishop of our Souls, after his Refurrection, fent the Eleven as his Father fent him (a); that is, gave them Commission to be the Supreme Governours of his Vifible Church, and they thus invested with Episcopal Power, ordained the Seven Deacons; and they, or St. James, whom they very foon confecrated Bishop of Jerusalem, ordained the first Presbyters in that Church. The first Solemn Ordination of Presbyters we read of, was perform'd by Paul and Barnabas (b), both cloath'd with Episcopal Authority in an eminent Degree. Timothy, when he was settled Bishop of Ephesus, had Ordination given him by St. Paul (c), with Power to ordain Elders, and Directions therein. The same Power we find given to Titus (d), after he was made Bishop of Crete; and that they, in every Church which they planted, Ordained Bishops before they left it, to be the Chief Governours thereof, giving them the same Powers of Ordination and Jurisdiction, of binding and loofing, &c. as they had from their great LORD and Master; and that these Powers were to descend to their Successors, is as clear from the

⁽a) Joh. xxi. 21. (b) Acts xiv. 23. (c) 2 Times i. 6. 1 Tim. v. 22. (d) Tit. i. 5, &c. History of C

del,

ack

Scri

ceffi

Ore

fhal

Apo

the

cipl

ment

ed a

Ale

the

the

he c

walk

their their

Chie

a lit

Chu

cons,

then

ftle

nay,

lem,

ces

Aut

his .

iv. 3

T

History of the Church, as any other Matter of Fact recorded in History. Have we not there Catalogues of the Names of the Bishops settled by the Apostles in the Churches of Rome, Jerufalem, Antioch, Alexandria, and the other famous Churches of Christendom handed down to us, as exact as any Catalogue can be produced of the Kings of Scotland, England, France, or any other Nation? And I'm as able to prove Clemens to have been Bishop of Rome, Polycarp of Smyrna, Ignatins of Antioch, &c. as any Diffenter can prove, any Person he is pleased to name, to have been King in any Nation of Europe at any time: And as it would be thought ridiculous in me, to deny that Nero, Vespasian, Trajan, &c. were Roman Emperors, so I must take the Liberty to think so, of them who have the Confidence to deny those fore-cited Fathers to have been Bishops of those Sees they were said to Govern, since I'm as able to prove the one, as they to shew the

The greatest and best learned of the Presbyterian Writers have acknowledged, that how soon the Two Orders of Bishops and Presbyters came to be distinguished, so soon the Power of Ordination was appropriated to the Bishop. I shall cite Three of them, Salmasius, Blondel and Daillie, and direct the Reader where to find them acknowledge the same. The first in his Wallo-Missal (f), and in his Apparatus ad Lib. de Primatu Papa (g) says, That after these Orders came to be distinguished, there was no greater Difference betwint them, than that the Bishop had the only Power of Ordination, which the Presbyters wanted. Blondel, in his Apologia pro Sententia Hieronymi (h), acknowledges the same: As does Daille, De Scriptis Areopagita & Ignatij (i): And this Concession obliges me to consider how soon these Orders came to be distinguished; and That we shall find to be as early as the Times of the Aposteles, which I shall prove from Writings of the Apostolical Fathers who were their Disciples.

⁽f) Pag. 289, 299, 317. (g) Pag. 52, 74, 112, &c.

I begin with that Apostolical Father, St. Clement, Bishop of Rome, by St. Paul (k) mentioned as his own Disciple, who in his genuine Epifle to the Corinthians, very clearly distinguish'd the two Orders of 'Hysuevoi and Πρεσεύτεροι, the Chief Governours and Presbyters. In one Place he commends the Corinthians, That they did once walk according to GOD's Laws, being subject to their Chief Governours, and paying due Honour to their Presbyters. In another, Let us Reverence our Chief Rulers, and let us Honour our Presbyters; and a little farther, he enumerates four Ranks in the Church, the High-Priest, the Priest, the Deacons, and the Laity, and there tells, that all of them have their proper Offices; and this Epistle was wrote long before St. John's Death; nay, probably before the Destruction of Jerusalem, and is one clear Proof, that these two Offices were distinguish'd in the Apostles Times.

The 2d shall be Hermas, another Apostolical Author, whom St. Paul salutes in the End of his Epistle to the Romans; he calls the Bishops

⁽h) Pag. 157. (i) Pag. 388. (k) Philip. iv. 3. O 2 the

the Chief Rulers of the Church (1) Episcopi, id est, Prafides Ecclefiarum : And in another Place (m). mentioning Clemens as Bishop of Rome, he says, Thou shalt write two Books, the one thou shalt send to Clemens, and the other to Grapte, and Clemens shall fend it to Foreign Churches, for that is his Pre-This Apostolical Author wrote about An. 70; and the Writings of these Apostolical Fathers were esteem'd of such Authority in the Church, that tho' they were not universally receiv'd into the Canon of the Scripture, yet they were receiv'd as Canonical in feveral Churches, and accordingly quoted by feveral Fathers, as Irenaus, Clemens Alexandrinus, Origen and Tertul-Now these two Vouchers being of such Authority, might sufficiently prove that these two Orders were distinct in the Times of the Apostles.

The next I shall adduce, shall be the two holy Bishops and Martyrs, St. Ignatius and St. Polycarp, both the Disciples of St. John; the first, Bishop of Antioch, and the other, Bishop of Smyrna, and both appointed in their respective Sees by the Apostles themselves. St. Polycarp distinguishes himself from his Presbyters (n), Polycarpus and his Presbyters, to the Church of GOD in the Diocess of Philippi.

St. Ignatius (o) speaking of the Anthropomorphites, an Heretical Sect, says, I admonish you to preserve your selves from these, whom it is necessary for you not to entertain, but to avoid as much as possible. Only pray for them, if happily they may repent,

of the which for the Press ceive no M. Alta

Euch
JE:
of his
the P

it wit

(r)

Schi

the been faying shop.
Love Jesus Di

ftles clearl that about clefiafi Fragr

(p) Philad

⁽¹⁾ L. 3. Simil. 9. Sect. 27. (m) L. Vision 2. Sect. 4. (n) First Epist. 10 the Philip. (o) Epist. ad Smyrn.

repent, which is a Thing very difficult. But JE-SUS CHRIST, who is the true Life, hath Power of this. (p) Be careful to preserve Unity, than which nothing is better .- I could give my Life for those Persons who are subject to the Bishops, Presbyters and Deacons, and wish that I may receive my part in GOD together with them. no Man be deceived. If any Man is not within the Altar, he is deprived of the Bread of GOD. (r) If any Man follows him who is the Maker of Schism, he is no Inheritor of the Kingdom of GOD. -Let it be your Endeavour therefore to use One Eucharist, for there is One Flesh of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, and One Cup for the Unity of his Blood; One Altar, as One Bishop, with the Presbytery and Deacons, my Fellow-Servants. - I have cried in the midst of you, I have spoken it with a lofty Voice, Attend unto the Bishop and the Presbytery, and the Deacens .- I have not been taught it by Man, but the Spirit preached it, saying these Things. Do nothing without the Bishop. Keep your Flesh as the Temple of GOD. Love Unity. Flee Divisions. Be Followers of Jesus Christ, as he himself is of the Father.

- 7

s h

e

y s d

y

Dionysius, Bishop of Corinth, wrote divers Epistles about the Year 160, wherein he most clearly distinguishes the two Orders, as does that Apostolical Author Egesippus, who wrote about the Year 162, his Five Books of Ecclesiastical History, of which we have divers Fragments in Eusebins's Ecclesiastical History (s): The like does Irenaus in his Book against Here-

⁽p) Ad Polyearp. (q) Ad Ephef. (r) Ad Philadelph. (s) L. 5. C. 25.

fies, wrote when Aged 80. An. 187. as is observed by the learned Dodwell: And Polycrates, Bishop of Ephesus, An. 189, writing to Victor, Bishop of Rome, concerning the Controversy about Easter, told him, that Seven of his Kinsmen had govern'd that Church, and that he was the Eighth, the First of which we may well allow to be Timothy's Successor. I could cite for this Purpose Clemens Alexandrinus, Tertullian, Origen, Cyprian, and many Fathers in every Century, but shall refer them to the Works of the Learned and Worthy Author of the Principles of the Cyprianick Age, and its Vindication, what I have adduced being sufficient, if either the Authority or Number of Testimonies be considered, to prove that in the Apostle's Times, and ever fince, these two Orders of Bishops and Presbyters were distinguished; and confequently by the Concession of these. Three Presbyterian Advocates, the Power of Ordination, fince that time, was folely in the Bishop, and so no Presbyterian Ordination Valid; which if true (as I think is clearly proved) then to be fure no Ministry, nor Church-Power, nor Valid Sacraments, can be found amongst them.

Their own Friend St. Jerom (t), as they take him to be, (tho' I know not for what Reason) is very plain as to the Power of Ordination; Quid facit Episcopus excepta Ordinatione, quod non facit Presbyter.

The Canons of the Councils are full in restricting the Power of Ordination to Bishops; as the first Apostolical Canon appoints a Bishop to be or-

(s) Fp. 87. ad Evag.

Let a December without Reafor and be Clergy and at mot specified ters determined the control of the control of

dained

Counce Ephefu the Po the Bi was no I hope two fo the M

The from 2d Apmine t

Dioced Schifm, ing to call'd Presbyte them, c dained by Two or Three Bishops. So the 2d is, Let a Presbyter be ordained by One Bishop, as also a Deacon, and the other Clergy. The 39th, Let neither the Presbyters nor Deacons perform any thing without the Bishop's Allowance; and gives the Reason, For to him GOD's People are committed, and he must reckon for their Souls, Can. 55. If any Clergyman reproach the Bishop, let him be deposed; and assigns this Reason, For it's written, Thou shalt not speak Evil of the Rulers of the People. How contrary to these Canons was the Practice of the forecited General Assembly 1638, where the Presbyters deposed and excommunicated their Bishops?

I could add many Canons from the General Council of Nice, An. 325, Constantinople, An. 381, Ephesus, Au. 430, and others, for proving, that the Power of Ordination was entirely lodg'd in the Bishop, and that Ordination by Presbyters was never esteemed Valid by the Church: But I hope to put it beyond all Question by the two following Instances which come home to the Matter, omitting many others that might be adduced.

1-

it

n

ie

W

is

n,

у,

d

y-

ve

ty

ve

efe

b-

fe,

of

he a-

d)

er,

gst

ike

n)

n;

20*n*

et-

the

or-

ned

The first is that famous Instance we have from Athanasius, that Great Confessor, in his 2d Apology, which is sufficient alone to determine the Controversy.

Athanasius being promoted to the Chair of A-lexandria, A. 326. and finding Disorders in his Diocess; partly occasioned by the Meletian Schism, and partly by the Arian Heresy, and being to Visit the whole, came to a Country call'd Mareotis; where having Convocated the Presbyters to inquire what Disorders were amongst them, one of them told him, that one Ischyras, who had no Ordination from a Bishop, acted as Presbyter in a Village under his Juridiction, though he was not one; whereupon he fent Macarius one of his City Presbyters, with the complaining Presbyter, to the Village where Ischyras lived, to inquire into the Matter, and to Cite Ischyras to appear before him. He being Sick could not appear; but Macarins found the Complaint just, and Athanafins by his Episcopal Authority discharged him from acting any more as a Presbyter; requiring him and his Kindred to obey the Sentence, which he being obliged to do, went over to the Meletians, then (in Conjunction with the Eusebians) Favourers of the Arians; thereby, right or wrong, to ruin Athanastus, who was their great Opposer; and for that end accuses Macarins, that he had entered Ischyras's Church, while he was Celebrating the Holy Eucharist, over-turned the Mystical Table, broke the consecrated Chalice, and burned the facred Books. To canvass this and other Crimes they had invented against Athanafins, they prevailed with the Emperor Constantine, to call a Synod at Tyre, A. 335, to which he being fummoned, appeared, and purged himself of all the Crimes laid against him, and of this in particular; and amongst his other Defences in this Caufe, he pleaded, that Ischmas could be no Presbyter, in respect he had no other Ordination, but from Coluthus a Presbyter, who had no Power to Ordain; and so Ischyras's Ordination not being valid, he was no Presbyter, and therefore he had no Power to Consecrate the Eucharist; which he proved to be true. The Synod, though they could not get over this Objection, (yet the Eusebians prevailing) resolved by any Means to ruin Athanasius, and sent six Bishops into Mareotis to inquire into that Affair; to ble Isc. had hav tha to inte by gre: was Pre chyr on b Nan Pres got (Orde. fiftee with the S out a hur resto Cafe much by the byter who u no Po

Hands

fed th

Laick

no Pri

Again

fai

lot

ty

to

to

e-

ut

aim

ng

ce,

he bi-

or eat

ins,

he

ned

lice,

his

ha-

an-

ich

ged

and

De-

gras

ther

Tuho

ina-

and

ist;

nod,

ecti-

by

fix

Affair;

fair; which occasioned the Mareotick Presbyters to write two Letters, one to the Bishops assembled at Tyre, telling them, they wondred how Ischyras could pretend to be a Presbyter, fince he had no other Ordination then what he boasted to have from Coluthus, who was but a Presbyter; and that none but his own Kindred believed him to be a Presbyter. The Matter being inquired into, he was reduced to the Order of Laicks, by a Synod holden at Alexandria, where the great Hofins President of the Council of Nice was present. The other Letter they sent to the Prefect of Egypt; wherein they tell him; that Ifchyras was no Presbyter, because he had no Ordination but from Coluthus, falfly assuming to himself the Name of a Bishop, whereas he was no more but a Presbyter; telling him also, that all others who had got Ordination from Coluthus were reduced to the Order of Laicks. Both Letters are Subscribed by fifteen Presbyters, and as many Deacons: Notwithstanding of which, the Arians prevailing, the Synod at Tyre deposed Athanasius; but without regard to this, another Synod of about a hundred Bishops, met at Alexandria, A: 340; restored Athanasins, and carefully examining the Case of Ischyras, declared thus: This is that much talk'd of Ischyras, who was neither ordained by the Church, nor Meletius; whence then a Presbyter? Who ordained him? Who but Coluthus, who was never more than a Presbyter, and so had no Power to Ordain? And all his Impositions of Hands were perform d in Schism; fo those he impofed them on, were already reduced to the Station of Laicks: How then could a private Man, that was no Priest, have a mystical or consecrated Chalice? Again, An. 341: another Synod, wherein the prevailing Party were Arians, deposed Athanahus, upon which he fled to Rome, where a Synod was called of Fifty Bishops, who after they had narrowly canvassed the Case of Ischyras, found he could be no Presbyter, in respect he had no Episcopal Ordination. Nay, it did not. yet stop here, for An. 347, the whole Matter was again laid before the Great Synod of Sardica, confifting of about Three Hundred Bishops, convocated by Imperial Authority, from all the Provinces of the Roman Empire; and there the Council, in their Epiftle to the Prefbyters of Alexandria, say, That having search'd the Records about Ischyras, they found him an arrant Villain. They write the same to the Bishops of Egypt and Lybia; and in a third Epifile, To all the Bishops of the Catholick Church, they declare, Ischyras was never Presbyter, because he had not Episcopal Ordination.

I have given you this Historical Account in as few Words as possible; from whence it is plain, that Ordinations performed in those Days by meer Presbyters, were rejected as invalid. We find Ischyras no Presbyter, because no Bishop ordained him. Is it not plain that this, in that Age, was the Sentiment of the whole Catholick Church? Can there be a greater Proof for the Reception of any Principle, in any Age, than is given for this? We have here the positive Sense of the Mareotick Presbyters, who would never have stood up so far against the Interest of their Order, as to declare Ordinations by Prefbyters null, if the received Principle of the Church then, could have allow'd them to be valid. We have, lastly, in this, the consentient Decisions of Four very confiderable Synods, the last of which

w

G

ma

nic

gov

ore

 E_p

Bit

pri

he

up

wa

tino

wa

Ha

all

voi

Ch

cil

COI

for

tion

not

wa

pat

Ap

the

We

exc

of '

Pro

tion

red

fibl

]

which more numerous than either the 2d or 3d General Council.

er

y-

he

ot.

er

r-

i-

m ad

ef-

d

r-

li-

ney

be

in

is

by

l'e

r-

at ck

he

is ſe

er

of f-

h

e

15

of

h

The last Instance I shall adduce, is no less remarkable than the first. One Maximus, a Cynick Philosopher, came to Constantinople, when Gregory Nazianzen was Bishop, and being by him ordain'd a Presbyter, immediately aim'd at the Episcopal Chair, and for that End brought some Bishops from Egypt, his native Country, who privately confecrated him; and then he (as if he had been Bishop of that great City) took upon him to Ordain Presbyters. This Affair was brought before the 2d Council at Constantinople, An. 381. which decreed, That Maximus was not a Bishop, and therefore those he had laid Hands upon, were in no Clerical Order whatsoever, all Things done about him, or by him, being null and void. Here we have the Sense of the whole Christian Church, from a famous General Council; Maximus declar'd No Bishop, because not confecrated conform to the Canons, and therefore, being no more but a Presbyter, all Ordinations made by him were declared null and void.

If the Superiority of Bishops to Presbyters, was not in the Time of the Apostles, at what time was it introduced? If Episcopacy was an Usurpation crept into the Church soon after the Apostles, and contrary to their Intention, and the Church's Interest, when did this happen? We know the primitive Church was even to an excess scrupulous, in maintaining the very Phrase of Traditionary Doctrines, and Form of customary Practices, insomuch, that when the least Innovation in either was discovered, all Men conspired to condemn the Innovators. And is it possible that those first Bishops, who even by their

P 2 Offices

Offices were most peculiarly Candidates for Martyrdom, should so suddenly degenerate from the Apostolical Spirit of Humility, as universally conspire to set up that pretended Tyranny over the rest of the Clergy and the whole Church? In the midst of most Cruel Persecutions were they at Leisure to design and carry on such ambitions Projects? And would the whole Order of Presbyters suffer themselves to be excluded from their Privileges and Offices so very lately bequeath'd them by CHRIST, and conferr'd by the Apostles, and this universally thro' the whole World, and not one single Presbyter appear who should protest against such an Usurpation? Certainly it is much more reasonable to believe the Presbyterians, and all other Enemies of Episcopacy are mistaken, or deceiv'd, than that all Primitive Bishops were Tyrants, and all Primitive Priests Fools, or what is worse, Betrayers of that Power and Duty which was left and enjoyn'd them by the Apostles.

Having thus proved that a legitimate Succession of Holy Orders is necessary to the very Essence and Constitution of a Church, and that the Super-eminence of Bishops above Priests, in having the Power of Ordination principally and entirely residing in them, was the Doctrine of the Church from the beginning.

I think it may be proper next to shew what great Regard the Holy Fathers of the Church paid to this necessary Foundation, in all their Disputes with Hereticks and Schismaticks, insisting unanimously and most tenaciously on this Enquiry, viz. By what lawful Succession, from what Apostolick Seat their first Teacher derived his Mission? By this professing it was as necessary to insist upon the Point

Point the I St. Co fay the dinate the resiles to

Th full A fuch a byteria ments, do as cles a of ou Grana Part o Union nicate tirely defecti lar Or the O of St. (b). V. flors? placed conda being

Faith

then w

⁽a) I (c) Ep

Point of Succession, as to examine the Truth of the Doctrines themselves, according to that of St. Chrysostom, (a) Suppose you, that it is sufficient to say they are Orthodox, and in the mean time, Ordination is lost and perished? To what purpose is the rest, this not being made good? For we ought no less to Contend for it, than for the faith it self.

This Saying of St. Chryfostom, is, I think, a full Answer to all that can be said in Favour of. fuch as want a right Lineal Succession. The Prefbyterians may with us agree in the Creed, Sacraments, and some other Points of Religion; they do agree with us in a great many negative Articles against Popery, and so may make up a Part of our Confederacy; they may be a Member of our Grand Alliance, but they cannot however be a Part of our Church Constitution; we can have no Union with them in positive Religion, nor communicate with them in any Offices that are not entirely of a Civil or Political Nature; for they are defective in the Fundamentals, they have no Regular Ordination, without which, all the rest, in the Opinion of this Holy Father, is nothing, this being as necessary to the Church, as Orthodox Faith:

To the same Purpose says St. Irenaus Disciple of St. Polycarp, who was Disciple of St. John, (b). Where is it then that a Man shall find such Passors? St. Paul teaches us when he says, (c) God hath placed in his Church, first of all, Apostles, secondarily Prophets, then Evangelists, &c. There then where the Gifts of our Lord are placed; in the ı

7 =)

2

⁽a) Hom. 11. in Ephes.

⁽c) Eph. iv. 11.

⁽b) Lib. 4. Cap. 45.

Same Place, must we seek for the Truth, amongst whom the Succession of the Church since the Apostles, and the Purity of Doctrine is maintained in its Integrity.

Nothing can be more plain than this in all the Writings of the Fathers, that good or found Doctrines are not to be expected, but in the Unity of the Church. And if the Truth of Doctrine could be found in a State of Schism, yet the Ministrations are invalid; that is, they cannot in an ordinary Way produce what God has appointed them for; the Person is but deceived, and imposed upon by a counterfeit, pretended, usurp'd Authority, which can convey nothing This is also more confirmed but Damnation. by St. Cyprian, in many Places, especially in his Book Of the Unity of the Church, and many of his Epistles. (d) Whereas some allege, saith he, That they acknowledge the Same God the Father, the Same Son Jesus Christ, and the same Holy Ghost, this can nothing avail them (viz. being in Schism) for Corah, Dathan, and Abiram, acknowledged the same God that Aaron the High-Priest, and Moses did, living under the same Law, and in the same Religion, they invoked that one and true God, who is to be worshipped and prayed to: Yet, in as much as exceeding the Limits of their Ministry, they assumed to themselves the Licence to Sacrifice, in Opposition to Aaron the High-Priest, who by the Ordination of God had before obtained the Lawful Priesthood, they being Supernaturally stricken, presently received the just Punishment of their unlawful Attempts - And again, Ep. ad Corn. Christ fays to his Apostles, and by them to all Bishops who

He s

ceive

in 7

With

(f) 1

of of Toget

becar

ceed no P effic. Chri

Whe

Do&

stian by d

no p

as no

Ord

or is

Cafe

w.e t

nary

pheti

(e)

W

W

⁽d) Epist ad Magn.

who succeed the Apostles by a substitute Ordination, He that heareth you, heareth me. So saith St. Athanasius (e) How can they be Bishops, if they have received their Ordination from Hereticks, even by their own Accusation? Lastly, to omit infinite Passages in Tertul. St. Aug. Optatus, &c. I shall bring one Witness, whom they often, (tho' very unjustly) claim, as a Favourer of their Cause, St. Jerome, (f) who speaking of Hilary the Deacon, Author of one of the Sects of the Luciferians, saith, Together with the Man his Sect is likewise perished, because a Deacon could not ordain a Clerk to succeed after him. Now it is not a Church which bath no Priests.

Were such Arguments as these Logical and efficacious in the third and fourth Century of Christianity, and are they of no Force now? When was it that they began to lose their Virtue? Did all the ancient Martyrs, Bishops, and Dostors of the Church, Champions of the Christian Religion, confound all the ancient Heresies, by demonstrating that the Authors of them had no personal, legitimate, nor doctrinal Succession, and shall we believe such a Succession now is not as necessary as then, or that there is any Valid Ministry, where Regular, Successive, Ecclesiastical Order is laid aside? Is this a pure Reformation, or is it not rather Novelty, Heresy, and Schism?

What Words can come more Home to our Case, than these of the holy Fathers? Well may we think they were guided by a very extraordinary Measure of the divine Spirit, who, by Prophetical Impulse, so many Ages ago, not only les,

its

all

und

Jai-

rine

the

not

ap-

red,

ded,

ing

ned

his

his

they

Son

can

ah,

God

ving

they

ped

Li-

the

igh-

06-atu-

at of

orn.

hops

who

⁽e) In Synod.

⁽f) In Dialog contra Lucifer.

confuted the Heresies of their own Time, but left sufficient Testimonies against all such as should afterwards arise to the Disturbance of the Church; being dead, they yet speak by their pious and orthodox Writings, against all false Dostrine, Heresy, and Schism; and they that participate of that divine Spirit which animates the Body of Christ, they hear their Voice, or rather the Voice of the chief Shepherd in them, the Voice behind them, (that is, in the Ages past) calling from destructive Error, Novelty, and Separation, and saying, This is the Way, walk ye in it.

And let it be here observed, that these severe Denunciations of the Fathers were for the most Part against such as were Episcopally ordained, but had received their Orders from, and joyned in Communion with Heretical and Schismatical Bi-The Arians, Novatians, Donatifts, Neftothops. rians, Eutychians, &c. all had their Bishops and distinct Orders of Clergy. Aerius alone, (whom I mentioned before) was the only Person in all the large Tract of Time, and Extension of Christianity, from the Apostles to the fifteenth Century, that ever pretended that Presbyters could confer Orders, or that Bishop and Priest were the same Order and Office. He had few Followers in this, as in other Heretical Opinions; it was not then fo easy, to perswade Men to run counter to the Custom and Order of all the Churches of Christ. Yet God be thanked, there are such Arguments on our Side, as amount to a Demonstration, that our Zeal for the Apostolical Order of Episcopacy is not a criminal Contention about a Thing indifferent (as the Latitudinarians, and Favourers of Occasional Conformity pretend) a Dispute about Words engendring Strife, but being zealously affected in a good good Sou che to t $D_0 \mathcal{E}_1$ my and it to has due rian alfo can thori thef Live Perf the Auth ceffin we c out Mile Chu fhop from St. C our . very Elrin both here

ent (

are l fwor

lefs,

out

as

the

ous

ine,

of

of

the ice

ing

ti-

ere

oft

out

ih

Bi-

Ao-

ind

m

all

ri-

tu-

on-

ne

13,

fo

u-

et

ur

ur

ot

nt

î0-

ds

od

good Cause, such as concerns the very Life and Soul of Religion. For if our Presbyterian Teachers will but shew any from the Apostles down to the Days of Luther and Calvin, who held their Doctrine even in that one Particular, I dare oblige my felf to prove he was marked as a Heretick, and his Selt was called by his Name, to diftinguish it from the Housbold of Faith, over whom Christ has appointed Stewards to give them their Meat in due Season. We own, many among the Presbyterian Teachers may be of competent Abilities, and also of good moral Lives; but this is not what can constitute them Ministers, or give them Authority in the Church of Christ; for in neither of these do they exceed the found Learning and pions Lives of the Orthodox Episcopal Clergy; it is not Personal Qualification, but Sacerdotal Power; not the Preaching or Praying well, bur the having Authority to do fo, from such as received it succeffively handed down from the Apostles, That we contend for; and this is so material, that without it, Succession in Doctrine fignifies nothing. Miserable we are (saith a learned Divine of the Church of England) if he that now fits Archbishop of Canterbury, could not derive his Succession from St. Augustin, St. Augustin from St. Gregory, St. Gregory from St. Peter. Such Ordination have our Bishops as the Bishops in England, the same very Succession, as they agree in the same very Do-Elrine, and all the Separation is equally finful in both Nations, only with this Aggravation, that here, they have proceeded to extirpate the ancient Church Government of Episcopacy, there, they are labouring to undermine it; in both they have fworn to destroy it. Nor is the Crime of Schifm less, or Presbyterian Religion more Orthodox, or the Condition of fuch as adhere to it less dangerous, that they are the Established Church Government in Scotland. Were the Arians the Church, because they were favoured by Imperial Edicts, and had Power to perfecute the Faithful by Form of Law, and Civil Process? Is a Church more a Church, when established by Law, than when subfisting without, or against Law? Then the Church of Scotland is more a Church than the whole Catholick Church in the three first Centuries; then Christianity is Herely in all Dominions that are not Christian, and true Religion must appear in as many different Shapes, as the different Fancies and Humours of several Nations will have it: What is in one Place Sound and Orthodox, will be esteemed Heresy and False Dostrine in another; and a Christian must as often shift his Religion, as he changes his Habitation. But if Christian Religion is the same, and to remain unchanged in all the Variety of human Events, and the Church of Christ is Catholick, or Univerfal in Time and Place, then it will appear our Duty to adhere to that Form of Church Government, That Apostolical Order which has ever been observed in the Church of Christ. Christian Religion stands under the same Terms of Duty to God and Man as heretofore it did, we have as strict Obligation to Church Unity, and Obedience to those that are over us in the Lord, as had our first Fore-runners in the Faith; we are as forcibly bound to join in the same publick Worship as they were, and all Separation will be as penal, and as certain a Prejudice to the Judgment of the Great Day, as it was esteemed in the primitive Church; and 'tis declared to be by the holy Fathers: For what St. Augustin said to the Donatists, CIS tis (a) thold live, from the live before thin pacy and been

[114]

" he be to to like to VE

" he

" Ca " if " N " or " fe

" in " Un

" At

(a) ge-

rn-

ch,

As,

by

ch

an

en

he ·

tu-

ons

uft

fe-

ons

7-ine

ift

ut

un

ts,

er-

ur

n-

er

ti-

u-ve

nd

as

as

ip

ıl,

ne

ve a-

s,

S

tis fit every Christian should seriously consider. (a) Whoever shall be divided from the Church Catholick, how laudably soever he may think he doth live, for this very Wickedness, that he lives disjoined from the Unity of Christ, he shall not have Life, but the Wrath of God remains upon him. But who soever within the Church lives well, other Mens Sins in it do no way prejudice him. I shall conclude all with the Rule of Vincentius Lyrinenfis, which I have before mentioned, according to which let thole things be tried, viz. Whether Liturgy and Episcopacy were not always every where, and by all held and approved; and that all Separation has ever been condemned in the Church of God. (b) " As " holy and learned Men have taught me (faith " he) so I exhort others, that they interpret the " Divine and Canonical Scripture, according to " the Tradition of the Universal Church, according " to the Rules of Catholick Doctrine, in which " likewise they must of Necessity follow Uni-" VERSALITY, ANTIQUITY, and CONSENT of the " Catholick and Apostolick Church. And therefore, " if at any time a Part rebel against the Whole, " Novelty against Antiquity, the Diffention of one " or a few (seduced with Error) against the Con-" fent of all, or the far greater Part of Catholicks; " in that Case, let them prefer the Integrity of " Universality before the Corruption of a Part; " and in Universality, let them also prefer the " Religion of Antiquity before profane Novelty: " And again, in Antiquity, let them prefer be-" fore the Temerity of one or a few, the De-" crees of a General Council, if any be; or if no

⁽a) Epist. 152. (b) Adv. Hæres. Cap. 15. Q 2 " such

"fuch be found, let them take that which is "next Hand; that is, to follow the Opinion of many and great learned Doctors agreeing toge-"ther: All which faithfully, foberly, diligent-"ly observed and kept, by God's Grace, we fhall without any Difficulty discover Error. God give us Understanding to perceive, and to follow such things as may serve our Eternal Peace.

And now I have finished what I undertook, more from a Desire of being serviceable to my Neighbour, and the Interest of divine Truth, than any Opinion of my own Abilities. My Intention was sincere, and I hope the Performance, however weak, may be useful.

1. I have in the Letter proved the English Liturgy to be free from Popery; not only from the Subject Matter thereof, but the Testimony of the most eminent Divines at Home and Abroad, both at, and since the Resormation; and that a Liturgy, or Set Form of Prayer, is warranted and authorized by the Holy Scriptures, the Practice of the Church of God among the Jews, and the universal Consent of the Christian Church always and every where.

2. That the Bishop is the Center of Unity in the Church over which he presides, and that consequently all Separation from him is Schism. I have shewn how severely this Sin was punished under the Law, how strictly prohibited by our B. Saviour and his Apostles; and how watchful the Bishops of the Primitive Church were against its Assaults, by the Denunciation of the highest Censures against the Authors and Encouragers of Separation.

3. That

es C

and

exec

ther

facri

fice

Shep

but o

with

Maj

Affa

with fulfil

his

App

Judg

I ha

fum'

fuch

decla

a M

we i

ment

we l

Disa

conc

Deve

can

a we

Valia

unha let u

rah,

F

- ·

-

e

I,

d

d

r

e

s

S

t

That the Bishop being in his Province, s Christ is in his Church, the Center of Union, and Fountain of Power, whoever shall pretend to execute any ministerial Function, without being thereunto ordained and appointed by him, do facrilegiously usurp a Power, and invade an Office which belongs not to them; fuch are not Shepherds, but Thieves; come not in at the Door, but climb over the Wall, run unsent, and preach without a Call, and are highly injurious to the Majesty of GOD, as they presume to transact Affairs of the highest Consequence in his Name without his Commission; and that he has no where promifed to ratify fuch Ministrations, or fulfil fuch Covenants, as thus not only without his Leave, but even against his Order and Appointment are enter'd into. To shew the Judgment of the Catholick Church in this Point, I have given Instances, that where any have prefum'd to derive an Ordination from Presbyters, fuch pretended Priesthood has been Synodically declared Null and Invalid.

From all which it will appear, that it is not a Matter of Indifferency where we pray, where we hear GOD's Word or receive the Sacraments; that it is of the greatest Concern that we be not mistaken in this Matter, for such Disappointments are fatal where Salvation is concern'd. If the awful Solemnity of publick Devotion requires the most perfect Service we can perform, Let us choose to worship GOD by a well-composed Liturgy. If no Ministrations are Valid which are performed in Schism, if such unhallow'd Offerers sin against their own Soul, let us carefully abstain from the Ways of Korah, that we perish not in his Gainsaying. If no Person hath Authority from GOD to receive into his Church by Baptism, or to consecrate the Holy Sacrament of the Eucharist, if he cannot remit or retain Sins, or transact any thing in GOD's stead, in order to our Peace and Pardon. Let us be careful to avoid those Assemblies, where such Ministrations are pretended, and to bear our Testimony against such Profanation of Holy Things; and while we seriously lament and bewail the fad Condition of fuch as are deprived of a Regular Priesthood and Valid Administrations, let us pray that GOD will root out every Plant which he hath not planted, that he will send faithful Labourers into his Vineyard; Let us honour the Dust of Zion, the few Stones of our Ruins that are left us, and with them (the Orthodox Remains of our once Glorious Episcopal Church) let us worship the GOD of our Fathers, in the Way and Manner of the Church, always and every where bearing Witness to those Truth for which we suffer, that he may look in Mercy upon us, and turn again our Captivity as the Streams in the South (c); And confidering the Frailty of our human Nature, and the many and great Dangers and Temptations with which we are befer, let us thus continue to pray in the Words of the Church;

fin

bot

felv

are

eno

nef

flic

tion

wh

Lo

aga

beh

Na

Bel

yet

neit

tho

and

Tea

to l

bro

her to b

mur

that is fe

Chr

From all Sedition, Privy-Conspiracy and Rebellion, from all False Doctrine, Heresy and Schism, from Hardness of Heart, and Contempt of thy Word and Commandments,

Good LORD deliver us. Amen.

(c) Pfal. cxxvi. 4.

FINIS

A PRAYER fitted for a Day of Humiliation for the Church's Distress. By the Pious and Learned Dr. HAMMOND. Paraness. pag. 35.

10

n r-

5,

d

n

ıt

e l-

ut

ie

t

of

be ul

5,

d

h e e

1-

S

S

;

2.

Just and Righteous Judge, who didit once for the Iniquity of thy People Ifrael, give up thy Ark into the Hands of the Philistines, we finful Creatures that are now under a great Degree both of Guilt and Punishment, do here cast our selves down before thee, acknowledging that we are not worthy any longer to receive the Honour of Christian Profession, that have so long defamed it by enormous Lives; and that we who have loved Darkness more than Light, deserve to have our Candlestick removed, and to be given up to that Inundation of Error, Atheism, Irreligion, and Profinenels, which now invades the diffressed Church. Yet, O Lord, deal not with us after our Sins, but turn thee again, thou God of Hosts, look down from Heaven, behold and visit this Vine; do not abhor us for thy Name's sake; give not thine Heritage to Reproach. Behold, see, we beseech thee, we are all thy People; though a rebellious and stiff-necked Generation, yet thy Name is called upon by us. Leave us not, neither forsake us, O God of our Salvation; but though thou feed us with the Bread of Advertity, and Water of Affliction, yet let not our Teachers be removed into a Corner, but let our Eyes still see our Teachers. Let not Sion complain, that she hath none to lead her by the Hand among all the Sons she hath brought up, but provide her such Supports in this her declining Condition, that she may still have a Seed and a Remnant left. Suffer us not, O Lord, to be shaken or moved by these Afflictions, so as to murmur at thy Rod, or fall from thee; but grant, that we may all run with Patience the Race that is fet before us, and cheerfully partake of the Afflictions of the Gospel, that suffering for the Truth of Christ here, we may reign with him for ever here after,

after, through Jesus Christ his fake, our only Lord and Saviour, Amen.

O thou King of Nations, who dost according to thy Will in all the Kingdoms of the Earth, look favourably upon thy Vineyard, which is troden down, and laid waste. Thou haft broken our two Staves, Beauty and Bands, all Order and Unity, the necelfary Supports of a Church, at once perishing from The folemn Feats are forgotten in amongst us. Sion, her Elders fit upon the Ground and keep Silence, whilst they whom thou hast not sent, run; whilft those to whom thou hast not spoken, prophefy. We, O Lord, who might once have gone with the Multitude to the House of God, are now interdicted the more private Exercises, and Celebration of thy Service. This, this, O Lord, is the insupportable Part of our Afflictions, the Sting of all our Milery. It we had been only fold for Bond-men and Bond-women, we could have held our Peace; but thine abhorring thine Altar, and casting off thy Sanctuary, this is for a Lamentation, and must be for a Lamentation. Thy Servants think upon the Stones of Sion, and it pitieth them to see her in the Dust. Olet not all those Tears and Prayers that are poured out for her, return empty: And because thou hast thy self recommended to us the Efficacy of Importunity, be thou pleased to give us that Grace to excite and fir up all that make mention of the Lord, that they may give thee no Rest, till thou establish our Jerusalem again a Praise in the Earth. To that End, O Lord, give us Pastors after thine own Heart, fuch Prietts whose Lips may preserve Knowledge, and make us diligently to feek the Law at their Mouths; and grant that we being by this Deprivation taught the Value of fuch precious Advantages, and the Sin of our former contemning them, may unanimoully contend for the regaining them, by a cordial forfaking those Sins which have turned away those good things from us. Grant this, gracious Lord, for his fake whom thou hast fet forth to be our Propitiation, Jesus Chrisi our Lord. Amen.

6

rd

to far.

n, es, ef, om in Sir in the end on to rd, if he er in the end of the er in th